Welfare Proposal Tabled

Ohio House OKs $5 Billion Fund

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes' $4.9 billion appropriations bill has passed the Ohio House in almost its original form— a widely backed amendment that would have allocated more funds for welfare being shelved.

Seven Republicans bolted from party ranks Wednesday and joined all 37 Democrats to support the welfare proposal but it was tabled, 52-44.

The Republicans were Reps. David Albritton R-85 Dayton, William H. Anderson R-73 Cincinnati, Allen J. Bartunek R-54 Cleveland Heights, Cuyahoga. John Bechtold R-65 Cincinnati, Edwin T. Hofstetter R-36 Geauga, E. W. Lampson R-38 Ashtabula and Barry Levey R-39 Butler.

The amendment by Rep. William E. Hinig D-32 Tuscarawas would have boosted state support for Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) from the 50 per cent proposed in the bill to 90 per cent, leaving the remaining 10 per cent to counties if they choose to lift payments to 100 per cent of recommended standards. Counties would match state funds 50-50, under the bill.

Welfare case workers, church groups, and others seeking state ADC payments at 100 per cent looked on from the House galleries. They expressed hope the amendment or one similar to it will be revived when the Senate considers the big money bill.

Representatives debated more than three hours before a strict party line vote of 62-37 completed House passage. Democrats balked, they said, because the measure designed to finance state operations for the two years starting July 1 "is less than minimal."

Wellsville, Other Areas Push School Levy Change

COLUMBUS, Ohio — School officials from Wellsville, frustrated by voter rejection of additional school millage in four consecutive elections, asked the Ohio General Assembly for assistance Wednesday.

Appearing before the House Taxation Committee in support of two bills sponsored by State Rep. Clarence L. Wetzel, R-Columbiana, were Supt. Lowell B. Myers, Wellsville School Board President William F. Ferrall and Board Member Daniel MacLean.

Wetzel's bills, prompted by pleas for help from Wellsville officials but of wide interest to school administrators throughout the state, would:

Remove the requirement that school levies placed before voters in primaries in odd-numbered years and in special elections receive 55 per cent favorable vote for passage.

Lift a prohibition on more than one special election in a calendar year.

The 55 per cent requirement sent a 5-mill additional levy in Wellsville down to defeat earlier this month, despite a 52.1 favorable vote on the issue.

Record 337 GIs Killed Last Week

2,282 Wounded; Reds' Losses For Period Hit 2,464

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today that a record number of 337 Americans were killed in action last week, mainly in fighting around the demilitarized zone which has now been emptied of allied troops following its invasion a week ago.

The American Command said the last U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese units have now left the southern half of the zone, taking with them a wealth of captured booty plus thousands of civilian refugees.

Among the captured items were 180 North Vietnamese gas masks seized Wednesday along with 1,000 mortar shells.

The casualty report listed 337 Americans killed, 2,282 wounded and 31 missing during last week. In addition, 241 South Vietnamese troops were reported killed and other allies, mainly the South Koreans, reported 50 dead. Communist losses were 2,464 killed. All this made the week by far the bloodiest of the war.

The week's casualties brought U.S. losses for the war to 10,253 dead and 61,425 wounded by unofficial tabulation. The previous peak figure for killed in action in one week was 274, reached twice this year. The toll reflects the mounting intensity of the war and the continued growth of American and allied forces involved.

The joint Marine and South Vietnamese invasion of the southern half of the demilitarized zone, begun last Thursday, had been precipitated by increased casualites caused by Red guns and mortars firing from the buffer area. The week's casualty figure included the first three days of the invasion.

Crash Kills Motorist, 23, Near Beaver

BEAVER — A 23 - year - old Beaver County driver was killed early today in a collision in New Sewickley Township and a police officer investigating the mishap suffered a serious heart attack.

Dale Leonard Mace, assistant foreman at the Tuscarora Plastics Co. of New Brighton, died of chest injuries in the collision between his pickup truck and a car operated by John Goberish, 52, of Freedom R.D. 2.

Police said Mace was headed south on Route 68 in Daugherty Township and his truck and the northbound car collided in the middle of the road on a curve.

Goberish is in "fairly good" condition at Rochester General Hospital with head injuries.

Assistant Police Chief William Wittenbauch of Daugherty Township suffered a heart attack at the site and was taken to the New Brighton Unit of Beaver Valley Providence Hospital.

In another ironic aspect of the accident, Mace's uncle — Roy K. Young of New Brighton R.D. 2 — died of natural causes at Ellwood City Hospital three hours prior to the fatality at 12:15 a.m. and Mace was unaware of the death as he drove to work.

The Beaver County road toll for 1967 now stands at 20.

U.S. And Britain Seeking Support Of Insistence To Keep Gulf Open

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Britain reportedly plan to seek cooperation of other maritime nations in support of their insistence that the Gulf of Aqaba be open to all shipping, including Israel's.

Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser said Monday the waterway would be closed to Israeli shipping and that ships carrying strategic cargoes to Israel also would be barred from the Gulf of Aqaba. There Egyptians have mined the Gulf, Israel's supply lifeline to the East.

U.S. diplomatic efforts at present are aimed principally at trying to persuade Nasser to modify his position. This is also reported to be the major concern at the moment of the British and French governments.

All three fear war in the Middle East could result from an Israeli-Egyptian clash over the right of access to the southern Israeli port of Elath at the head of the gulf.

Minister of State George Thomson of Britain spent more than five hours Wednesday talking with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Undersecretary Eugene V. Rostow and other top officials on moves to deal with the Egyptian action and what Thomson afterward called "the threatening situation in the Middle East".

"What I have been seeking to do today," Thomson said, "was to discuss with the American government practical ways and means of insuring that the right of international passage is properly preserved."

Other informants said the two governments agreed the widest possible support should be sought from other nations for the principle that the Gulf of Aqaba is an international waterway which Egypt has no right to blockade.

American officials are known to feel the widespread endorsement of this principle might affect Nassar's decision and reinforce the stand which the United States and some other governments have taken calling for U.N. Security Council action in the situation.

It was the withdrawal of U.N. forces from Israeli-Egyptian border areas at Nasser's request last week which cleared the way for Egyptian forces to occupy vantage points from which they can control the narrow strait leading from the Red Sea into the gulf.

Some reports from diplomats here indicated Israel wouldnot take direct action against the threatened blockage for several days.

Senators split sharply Wednesday over what course the United States should follow, with some favoring forcing the issue by sending U.S. ships through the gulf and others advising against unilateral U.S. action.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Michigan Gov. George Romney — each considered a likely Johnson opponent in 1968 — cautioned restraint. Nixon applauded Johnson's stance, saying it "forcefully and properly reiterated" longstanding U.S. policy on keeping the gulf open to all shipping.

A check with military sources revealed, meanwhile, that the United States has only a token force in the Red Sea at present — a destroyer and a seaplane tender.

But at the Mediterranean port of Naples, 3,500 Marines boarded a U.S. 6th Fleet seven-ship amphibious force for what a Navy spokesman called routine training maneuvers.

The exact meaning of Nasser's blockade declaration Monday still is unclear, U.S. officials said. Some diplomats here, familiar with Egyptian views, said Nasser did not intend to close the strait to shipping of other countries but only to vessels flying the Israeli flag.

President Johnson conferred late Wednesday with the retiring Egyptian ambassador to Washington, Dr. Mostafa Kamel. The White House said the meeting had been arranged before the crisis arose and was mainly an occasion for Kamel to pay a farewell call on the President. It was understood, however, that they discussed the crisis and the Gulf of Aqaba issue.

French Ambassador Charles Lucet met with Rostow Wednesday night and informed him of a French proposal, announced earlier in the day, that the United States, Britain, France and Soviet Union concert their efforts "to dissuade the nations involved in the crisis from taking any steps to upset peace in the region."

The State Department already had declared its readiness to consider the French suggestion as a possibly practical and useful means of handling the situation.

But privately, U.S. officials doubted the Soviets, who are backing the Arab side in the dispute, would be willing to cooperate to any substantial extent with the United States and Britain, which are backing Israel, particularly on the critical issue of free movement of shipping through the Gulf of Aqaba.

UAR Chief Willing To Cooperate With U.N., Report Says

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant cut short his peace mission to Egypt today and flew home to report to the U.N. Security Council on his talks with President Gamal Abdel Nasser on the Middle East crisis.

"I have met President Nasser and I consider my mission completed," he said. "I do not intend to make any statement on my talks here until I return to the Security Council in New York."

Aides said he planned to report to the council Saturday or Sunday. Informants said he carried a special message to the council from Nasser.

They added it was unlikely Thant was carrying a new peace formula.

Nasser, sources said, explained to Thant in detail the Egyptian position in the crisis, and Thant is expected to spell this out in his report to the Security Council and to request the Council's opinion on what the next U.N. move should be in the effort to head off war between the Arab states and Israel.

Nasser is reported to have assured Thant of his willingness to cooperate with the United Nations, but at the same time stressed his determination to keep Egyptian forces in Gaza and in Sinai and to maintain what he calls Egypt's legal rights to bar the Gulf of Aquaba to Israeli shipping.

Thant met Nasser Wednesday night and Nasser was reported sympathetic to the secretary-general's peace proposals. The Egyptian leader also was reported to have reacted favorably to a French proposal for concerted action by the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union to head off a Middle East war.

Thant's proposals were reported in Cairo dispatches to include a revival of the Egyptian-Israeli Armistice Commis-

Officers said Morrison's car was damaged heavily on the right side, the impact causing it to bend in the middle. The convertible had severe damage to the front.

Morrison suffered multiple fractures of the ribs, lacerations of the scalp, a posible skull fracture and chest injuries.

An East End man suffered severe injuries in an accident in which five teen-age boys also were hurt Wednesday at 7:16 p.m. near Rogers.

Lewis L. Morrison, 52, of 1149 Pennsylvania Ave. was listed "very critical" today at City Hospital with multiple injuries received in the crash on County Rd. 428, a half - mile south of Rogers.

The Highway Patrol at Lisbon said Morrison backed his sedan from a private driveway onto the road and into the path of a southbound 1964 convertible operated by Richard A. Thomas, 17, of Poland, son of Donald Thomas of Rogers.

Officers said Morrison's car was damaged heavily on the right side, the impact causing it to bend in the middle. The convertible had severe damage to the front.

Morrison suffered multiple fractures of the ribs, lacerations of the scalp, a posible skull fracture and chest injuries.

Sixty - day suspensions were ordered also for Roger J. Gerwig, 17, of 541 E. Chestnut St., Lisbon, involved in an accident while driving under the influence of alcohol, and Dale R. Williams, 16, Columbiana, speeding — 90 miles an hour.

Kevin R. Merrick, 17, Delroy, consuming alcoholic beverage in automobile, 45 days; Robert E. Osborn Jr., 17, Crestview Pl., East Liverpool R. D. 2, speeding, 30 days; Joe L. Enoch, 16, Augusta, disposing of trash on highway right-of-way, 30 days.

City Woman Burned By Grease In Skillet

A city woman was burned when a skillet caught fire in the kitchen of her home Wednesday at 7:46 p. m.

Mrs. Lydia Wine, 44, of 951 Huston Ave. suffered first-and second-degree burns of the left hand when grease in the skillet ignited. She was taken to City Hospital by a police cruiser for treatment.

Firemen said the flames also set fire to a nearby curtain, but the blaze was out when they arrived.

Firemen were called at 1:39 p.m. yesterday to the home of Thomas Eddy of 186 Center St. when the seat of his car caught fire. Moderate damage resulted, according to firemen, who said the blaze apparently was started by a cigarette.

GOP promises to introduce later a supplemental appropriations bill to provide an additional $220 million for education.

But he listed welfare, workmen's compensation, mental health, highway safety, civil rights, and problems of the big cities as other areas of "insufficient appropriations."

House Finance Chairman Ralph E. Fisher R-24 Wayne said the record high budget has built-in increases in all these programs based on existing revenue with a "cushion" of only $500,000 expected at the end of the biennium.

Fisher conceded it may be possible to increase appropriations for programs other than education but said it will depend on legislative review of reports expected soon by various school and tax study groups. "The later appropriations bill will reflect the final judgment of this legislature," he said.

Besides Hinig's amendmemt, Democrats offered four others only to have them tabled by party line votes.

Rep. Thomas P. Gilmartin D-81 Youngstown sought to strike out a provision continuing the controversial state plan for centralized bidding for schol bus purchasing.

Rep. James J. Flannery D-48 Cleveland proposed transfer of $614,000 in Liquor Department personnel funds to hire more employes in the "understaffed" Insurance Department.

Rep A. G. Lancione D-30 Belmont sought transfer of $5 million from the Liquor Department to hire an additional 300 highway patrolmen.

Rep. Marigene Valiquette D-79 Toledo proposed transfer of $500,000 from the Development Department to bolster the staff of the Ohio Civil Rights Commission.

Of the bill's $4.9 billion total, welfare spending of $631.8 million would take 30 per cent, secondary and elementary education ($706 million) 34 per cent, higher education ($256 million) 13 per cent, and the other departments combined ($235 million) 11 per cent.

Fisher's committee made a few changes in the document as presented last March 30 by the governor. It increased appropriations $483,992.

It also modified allocations for higher education, eliminating funds for regents' professorships $450,000, and reducing community college appropriations by $750,000--in each case to provide more money for Wright State University, Dayton.

While the House argued over the budget, the Senate passed five bills and received a half dozen new proposals.

Passed and sent to the House was one measure by Sen. David S. Holcomb R-6 Dayton to relieve the highway director of gaining consent for changes in roads brought into municipal corporations by annexation or incorporation after such plans are journalized. Holcomb said the bill would help reduce land costs to the state.

Another Senate bill regulates construction of tall buildings near airports.

Senators completed enactment of House bills increasing to $3 a day the $1-a-day jail credit for "working off' fines for hunting and fishing law violations and increased from $5 to $25 the amount of special assessments property owners must pay in full instead of by installments.

New bills in the Senate would establish a college of medicine at Wright State University, establish Mansfield State University and require licensing of migrant labor camps.

Among eight bills introduced in the House were proposals to hike the state tax on cigarettes from 5 to 8 cents a pack, allow municipalities to tax motor vehicles owned by residents, and make assault on a policeman on duty punishable by a $500 fine or a year in prison or both.

Ashbaugh

"The East Liverpool Area Chamber of Commerce confers honorary life membership on C. Walter Ashbaugh for his service to the Chamber and the community."

It also recites briefly the posts he held in the Chamber. Ashbaugh was president in 1953-54 and served approximately 10 years on its board in three tenures. He also served on various committees, including those devoted to industrial development, roads and streets, city government and public education.

Ashbaugh was secretary-treasurer of the former S. C. Williams Co. He received the Civic Service Award of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in 1962.

Ashbaugh served three terms on the Board of Education and two terms on City Council. One of the organizers of the Upper Ohio Valley Development Council, he served as its vice president. He also was active in the YMCA, the Red Cross, the Community Fund, the Rotary Club, the Riverview Cemetery Association, the Masonic Lodge and St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

His father, C. C. Ashbaugh, was first president of the Chamber when it was organized in its present form in 1916.

It was the first time the Chamber has conferred an honorary life membership since 1956, when it paid tribute to Dr. C. H. Bailey.

Another highlight of the program was an address by Melvin Tharp, advertising director of the Columbus Dispatch and Citizen - Journal. He used the topic "Getting Ready for Tomorrow."

In a speech comprised almost entirely of rapid - fire humor, Tharp urged his audience to "learn to get along with people in this confused, complex, computerized age."

He said a smile and a word of praise for fellow employes, clients and customers "will work magic in your business or on your job."

He also introduced Safety-Service Director Robert E. Vodrey, Auditor Lawrence Zollinger and Charles Lang, president of the Jaycees. He thanked John Pinney, chairman, and other members of the banquet committee who arranged the dinner.

Review Printer James Smith To Retire Saturday

James E. Smith of 331 W. 6th St., a printer at The Review the last nine years, will retire Saturday and return to Altoona, Pa., his former residence.

Before coming here, Smith was employed as a printer at the former Altoona Tribune for 39 years. He has been a member of the International Typographical Union for 44 years and Local 318 for nine years. Both he and his wife, Mareta, have been members of the First United Presbyterian Church.

The Smiths will leave Saturday evening for Altoona, where they will join their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Smith, and two grandchildren. They will do some traveling in their camper and Smith plans to "catch up" on fishing and golf.

Smith's fellow workers presented him with a portable radio as a farewell gift.

Ashbaugh was secretary-treasurer of the former S. C. Williams Co. He received the Civic Service Award of the Junior Chamber of Commerce in 1962.

Ashbaugh served three terms on the Board of Education and two terms on City Council. One of the organizers of the Upper Ohio Valley Development Council, he served as its vice president. He also was active in the YMCA, the Red Cross, the Community Fund, the Rotary Club, the Riverview Cemetery Association, the Masonic Lodge and St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

His father, C. C. Ashbaugh, was first president of the Chamber when it was organized in its present form in 1916.

It was the first time the Chamber has conferred an honorary life membership since 1956, when it paid tribute to Dr. C. H. Bailey.

Another highlight of the program was an address by Melvin Tharp, advertising director of the Columbus Dispatch and Citizen - Journal. He used the topic "Getting Ready for Tomorrow."

In a speech comprised almost entirely of rapid - fire humor, Tharp urged his audience to "learn to get along with people in this confused, complex, computerized age."

He said a smile and a word of praise for fellow employes, clients and customers "will work magic in your business or on your job."

Invocation was by Fr. William Lawler of St. Aloysius Catholic Church. Purinton introduced seven retiring members of the Chamber board, including H. J. Allison Jr., William P. Barker, Paul H. Blair, Frank A. Dawson, Don McGillivray, Charles D. Taylor and Mike Turk.

He also introduced Safety-Service Director Robert E. Vodrey, Auditor Lawrence Zollinger and Charles Lang, president of the Jaycees. He thanked John Pinney, chairman, and other members of the banquet committee who arranged the dinner.

Board of Trustees, the certificate says in part:

"The East Liverpool Area Chamber of Commerce confers honorary life membership on C. Walter Ashbaugh for his service to the Chamber and the community."

It also recites briefly the posts he held in the Chamber. Ashbaugh was president in 1953-54 and served approximately 10 years on its board in three tenures. He also served on various

Review Printer James Smith To Retire Saturday

James E. Smith of 331 W. 6th St., a printer at The Review the last nine years, will retire Saturday and return to Altoona, Pa., his former residence.

Before coming here, Smith was employed as a printer at the former Altoona Tribune for 39 years. He has been a member of the International Typographical Union for 44 years and Local 318 for nine years. Both he and his wife, Mareta, have been members of the First United Presbyterian Church.

The Smiths will leave Saturday evening for Altoona, where they will join their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Smith, and two grandchildren. They will do some traveling in their camper and Smith plans to "catch up" on fishing and golf.

Smith's fellow workers presented him with a portable radio as a farewell gift.

Sun Never Sets On Old Glory

A former secretary of the Air Force and a long-time backer of strong military capability, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, is first to warn about the last thing war hawks want to think about right now.

Sen. Symington asks the hawks to give thought to the widening range of U.S. military commitments before rushing to fight in the Middle East.

He says there is a limit to the territory the United States can cover.

He suggests obliquely that the expansive mood of the Johnson administration might mislead this nation into spreading itself so thin its weakness would be an invitation for attack.

He also suggests obliquely that if a worldwide conspiracy does exist to knock over the United States it might very well tie up fragmented U.S. military forces in so many different corners of the world that no effectual U.S. force could be brought to bear anywhere.

Sen. Symington does not need to list commitments in Britain, Japan, Germany, elsewhere in Europe, Southeast Asia, the Mediterranean, Korea, the Pacific, the Atlantic, Latin America and Nationalist China.

He has no need to refer to the worldwide scope of the Strategic Air Command, the U.S. submarine fleet and the U.S. aircraft carrier fleet. U.S. military strength is dispersed in every quarter of the globe. The sun that formerly never set on the British Empire now shines continuously on Old Glory.

Military intervention in the Middle East would be only one more dispersion of U.S. effort. The excuse would be the necessity of protecting Israel against Arab vengeance. Or, if Israel's well-trained fighting forces prevailed over their opponents and threatened to keep marching, the excuse then would be the necessity of protecting the Arabs.

The question is not whether this is what the United States wants to do. The United States always wants to do what is right, just, fair, equitable and in behalf of peace; everybody knows that.

The question is whether the United States is strong enough to do everything fine and decent it wants to do. That always has been the question.

That was the question in Vietnam—but no one ever asked it.

Unusual Example

Few men in East Liverpool's history have given so much of themselves in so many different areas of community service as C. Walter Ashbaugh.

Ashbaugh, honored by the Chamber of Commerce with a life membership Wednesday night, not only served as president of the Chamber and headed many committees over the years, but was active in other spheres.

A former member of the Board of Education and City Council, he also helped and guided various civic and industrial organizations and fund-raising projects, and lent his experience and wisdom to many individuals.

Walter Ashbaugh, in addition, has displayed a personal courage and determination which, along with his unusual record of community service, provides an outstanding example for others now and in the years to come.

Ohioans Wait For Answer

Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes is trying to find out why the U.S. Health, Education and Welfare Department put the kiss of death on Ohio's bid to expand a program of exempting earned income for welfare recipients while approving a New York City plan for the same thing.

Gov. Rhodes pointed out to HEW Secretary John W. Gardner that this program started in Cleveland's Hough area in 1964 proved highly successful.

It was because of this success that the State Legislature enacted a bill designed to extend the program throughout the state. Under the plan, parents on Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) rolls would have been permitted to earn enough money to up their income to 100 per cent of a state-established living cost with no reduction in welfare allowances.

The governor said the income incentive program was pioneered in Hough as a demonstration experiment; and the statewide extension proposal was turned down by HEW on the basis the value of the project had been demonstrated amply.

"If that be the case, why the approval of the New York City project?" the governor asks.

Gov. Rhodes' contention is that if the program's value has been proved in Ohio, how can New York City be granted approval for the same type of plan on the basis it is an experiment.

We think his point is valid.

It seems logical that since Ohio pioneered in the city demonstration, the state should have a chance to see if an expanded program would be equally successful.

If HEW is finished with the entire project for demonstration purposes, as indicated in its rejection of the Ohio proposal, how did New York City get an approval?

The governor and the people of Ohio deserve an answer.

Count Panhandle In!

The Northern Panhandle, because of its location, some times has the feeling that it is being "left out" so far as statewide programs are concerned in the state of West Virginia.

We hope this isn't the case in the stepped-up enforcement of liquor and gambling laws announced Wednesday at Charleston by State Police Supt. W. E. Burchett.

Superdog?

By Truman Twill

Some of us friends of the dog winced when we read about a South African geneticist, Dr. Daan Marais, who has been developing what he believes will be the world's best breed of dogs.

His superdog, he says, will weigh about 250 pounds, be strong as a Great Dane, cunning as a wolf, smart as a jackal and affectionate as a St. Bernard. To demonstrate what he is thinking about, the doctor points to Pony, a brute of a dog that he claims has all the attributes listed.

He does not refer to the possibility his superdogs might be affectionate as wolves, with the cunning of Great Danes, the strength of jackals and the intelligence of ponies. It could happen.

Perhaps it will happen often enough in the eight additional years Dr. Marais has allocated for perfecting his breed to make him change his mind. He already has spent 13 years on the project, involving some 800 dogs.

Truth of the matter is that if he succeeds the result will be usable only in places like South Africa where there is a demand for an animal with strong hunting instincts, the size of a pony and a deep reservoir of affection for little children.

We have learned this to our regret at the Twillery, where such an animal already is in residence, with variations.

Our Rottenwollie has a strong hunting instinct for little children. She bites them on sight, also knocks them down and tramples them.

She has affection only for marauders, burglars, armed intruders and her beloved master, whose lap she strives to climb into with her pony-sized bulk.

Let this, then, be a warning to the South African geneticist.

What the world actually is looking for in the dog line is a low-priced mutt that will be housebroken from birth, inclined to bark only when instructed and equipped with infinite patience and good humor.

The mutt should have short hair that never sheds, a horror of sleeping in chairs and on beds and an aversion to high meat and rank odors.

The mutt's table manners should be flawless, he should know enough to wipe his feet before entering the house, be able to turn on water faucets when his water bowl runs dry and answer the phone.

His basic vocabulary should be comprised of no less than 150 words, exclusive of oaths and unprintable, and he should be able to communicate readily in two languages—dog and human.

He never should yield to an inclination to chase anything—cats, horses, other dogs, cats, or any moving object.

He should have a life expectancy of between 65 and 70 years, enabling his master to look forward to a lifetime of companionship.

We urge Dr. Daan Marais to forget about hunting game and zero in on something ideal.

Wired For Sound!

A Garrison Finish

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON

Sen. Russell Long, the Senate whip, who has become Sen. Dodd's most avid defender, revealed last week that Eberhardt Deutsch, "one of the greatest trial lawyers of all time," had offered his services free of charge to get Sen. Dodd out of the pickle he's in with his Senate colleagues over the ethics issue.

Art Buchwald

Sen. Long also revealed that at one time Jim Garrison, the New Orleans district attorney, had volunteered his services to help Sen. Dodd, but since Garrison became so involved in his own version of the Kennedy assassination, Sen. Long said, "I wouldn't presume to call on him now."

I can't help thinking, on the basis of his performance in the past few months, that the fact that Garrison is tied up is probably the best break Sen. Dodd has had so far. You wonder how Garrison would have defended Sen. Dodd if he had the chance.

FIRST, GARRISON probably would call a press conference and announce he was going to subpoena all six members of the Senate Ethics Committee to testify before a grand jury.

"Why are you going to do that?" he would be asked.

"Because I believe there's a definite conspiracy between the Senate committee, the CIA, the FBI and Oswald. I can't reveal more than that at this moment."

"But what would that have to do with Sen. Dodd?"

"Nothing, but it has a lot to do with Cuba. I can assure you there will be a conviction if I have anything to say about it."

"Mr. Garrison, Sen. Dodd has been charged with using $116,000 raised at political testimonial dinners for his own personal use. How do you plan to answer that?"

"That $116,000 was not a money figure but was a code used by the ethics committee to contact certain people in Dallas. If you subtract 23,456 from that figure and then add all the odd pages in the World Almanac and then divide this by the days in the month of May, you'll discover that the number you arrive at corresponds exactly with Jack Ruby's telephone number."

"But this doesn't answer the charge that the testimonial dinners were advertised as political events and the people who attended them did not know they were paying off Dodd's personal debts."

"I will produce witnesses who have undergone hypnosis and who will testify they knew in advance what kind of dinners they were attending. Only someone under hypnosis knows the real truth about these affairs."

"WHAT ELSE will you do, Mr. Garrison?"

"I plan to issue warrants for the arrest of the four ex-employes who stole Sen. Dodd's correspondence and I will prove beyond a shadow of a doubt that they all had a party two weeks before Dodd fired them. I also will produce as a key witness a narcotics addict who will swear that he saw Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson in a heated discussion with David Ferrie just days before Sen. Dodd gave his fifth testimonial dinner."

"You sound like you've got a solid case."

"I do, and anyone who says I don't will be indicted for perjury."

"Then from what you say this thing is much bigger than just an ethics question in the Senate."

"It certainly is. I may have to indict the entire Senate before I'm finished, but I'll get to the bottom of this or I'm not the Jolly Green Giant."

I'm not saying this is exactly how Garrison would have handled Dodd's case, but on the basis of his track record so far, I think Sen. Dodd can thank his lucky stars he got Eberhardt Deutsch instead.

Don't Undervalue Bomb

By Bruce Biossat

A good proportion of those people who oppose the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam are fundamentally against any sort of bombing as somehow inflicting a worse death than is caused by other means in war.

Since this is an emotional feeling, it really cannot and probably should not be argued with.

It is quite something else, however, to move from expressions of abhorrence over bombing to unsupportable arguments with regard to what it is doing or has done in past wars and this one.

Most recently, some critics of the present bombing, including a few senators, have contended that what happened to the British people in World War II proves that bombing "only stiffens morale" and can have little telling effect in war.

The story of that British experience would surprise some of these critics.

Over-all counting every phase of the air battles and the bombing over Britain, this celebrated assault covered the period from July 1940 to May 1941.

Those Americans old enough to have lived through the period may recall that millions of ordinary Britons in London, Liverpool, Coventry, Bristol, Plymouth and other cities were indeed doughty and courageous under the relentless rain of high explosives and incendiaries delivered by Nazi bombers.

At the height of the assault, Germany raided London for 57 successive nights. An average of 200 bombers a night droned over the city.

But the glow of admiration the free world placed around that horrifying chapter has tended to obscure some important facts.

In the entire July to May period, some 42,000 Britons were killed in Nazi raids and related activity. London itself, blitzed and battered and burned, suffered 21,000 dead.

No one is ever likely to cheer those totals as insiginificant. Yet the fact is that they are small compared to what happened to German and Japanese cities later in World War II.

The British saturation raid on Dresden killed an estimated 135,000 Germans in less than two days. One giant U.S. B-29 fire raid over Tokyo killed 97,000 Japanese in a single night — almost five times the number of Londoners lost in a period of several months.

Allied bombers gutted 6,000 acres of Berlin, 10 times as big an area as was ever bombed out in London. An even larger part of Hamburg was destroyed.

The truth is, as author Telford Taylor observes in his new book, "The Breaking Wave," that the German air force of that time was a vastly overrated machine of war.

Led by the confused Hermann Goering and equipped with planes of dubious quality, it constantly shifted objectives and never finished anthing.

The later perspectives on that war raise grave question as to how Britain would have borne up had the Nazi attacks been more severe and more efficient.

Sir Winston Churchill himself, in his history of World War II, says this:

"It would be unwise to suppose that if the attack had been 10 or 20 times as severe — or perhaps even two or three times as severe — the healthy reactions I have described (the raids stimulating action, comradeship, clarity of view would have followed."

Elsewhere in those writings Churchill adds:

"It is difficult to compare the ordeal of the Londoners . . . with that of the Germans in the last three years of the war. In this latter phase the bombs were much more powerful and the raids far more intense."

Churchill is perhaps a sufficient authority on this subject, since it was his ringing words, delivered months before the heavy German assaults, that did more than German bombs to lift and sustain British morale at the war's turning point.

This 'n That

Although the U.S. presidential residence was first referred to in wiriting as the White House in 1811, the name did not become official until 1902, when Theodore Roosevelt put it on all the official stationery.

The Big Chief?

By David Lawrence

How About Defense Secretary!

Who is really running the war in Vietnam?

The Constitution says there is only one commander-in-chief — the president of the United States.

But evidence is accumulating that virtually supreme power over the management of the armed services has been delegated to the Secretary of Defense. This contradicts both the spirit and the letter of the Constitution.

The National Security Act of 1947 permits delegation of administrative duties to the Secretary of Defense, but there is nowhere in the statute any transfer of authority or control over decisions in war operations.

The question was studied and reported on by a special committee appointed by President Eisenhower in 1953, as the Korean War was coming to an end. The document submitted to the House Armed Services Committee is mostly concerned with the functioning of the Department of Defense in peacetime. It says in part:

"It (the committee) does not believe that it is possible — for administrative purposes — to make a sufficiently clear distinction between military affairs, on the one hand, and on the other hand civilian affairs — such as political, economic, and industrial affairs — to serve as a practicable basis for dividing responsibility between military and civilian officers, or for establishing two parallel lines of command."

THE FORMULA followed ever since makes the Secretary of Defense virtually commander-in-chief. He makes the decision as to the size of the forces to be recruited and sent on foreign missions. He may "assign or reassign the development and operational use of new weapons or weapons systems to one or more of the military departments or one or more of the armed forces."

The secretary, to be sure, is obliged to report to Congress the details of any action he proposes to take.

Nowhere in the law, however, are military officers of the government — including the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff — given authority to put into effect their own conclusions or expert opinions on how military operations shall be conducted.

Congress can, by resolution, check at any time the action of the Secretary of Defense, but it has to be fully informed.

Few of the higher military officers would wish to go before a congressional committee, unless invited. Chances are that if they sought an invitation, this would be considered insubordination.

The United States is engaged in a large war involving nearly a half million members of the armed services.

Cost is running into many billions of dollars a year.

But the duties of the commander-in-chief are being performed, in effect, by the Secretary of Defense. He makes recommendations and interprets the proposals of the military men. While President Johnson has occasional conferences with the military chiefs, they do not as a rule have separate consultations with him.

NEVER BEFORE has such a system been operated during a major war. In both World War I and World War II, the highest military officers were in constant contact with the President.

In World War I, the commander of America's overseas army, Gen. John J. Pershing, reported directly to the chief of staff of the U.S. Army in Washington, who in turn consulted almost daily with the President.

In World War II, members of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff met with the President three or four times a week. There were instances when even the civilian secretaries at the head of the armed services were purposely not informed of certain plans for attacking the enemy.

Today military strategy is far from secret. Civilians have their say and can over-rule or nullify military decisions if they think considerations of an international political nature should take precedence.

The whole subject needs exposition in a comprehensive manner by a committee of Congress.

Certainly if the current system is maintained and another world war breaks out, it is doubtful whether the setup can be changed overnight so as to attain maximum efficiency in the use of military power.

Sun Never Sets On Old Glory

A former secretary of the Air Force and a long-time backer of strong military capability, Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, is first to warn about the last thing war hawks want to think about right now.

Sen. Symington asks the hawks to give thought to the widening range of U.S. military commitments before rushing to fight in the Middle East.

He says there is a limit to the territory the United States can cover.

Sen. Symington does not need to list commitments in Britain, Japan, Germany, elsewhere in Europe, Southeast Asia, the Mediterranean, Korea, the Pacific, the Atlantic, Latin America and Nationalist China.

He has no need to refer to the worldwide scope of the Strategic Air Command, the U.S. submarine fleet and the U.S. aircraft carrier fleet. U.S. military strength is dispersed in every quarter of the globe. The sun that formerly never set on the British Empire now shines continuously on Old Glory.

Military intervention in the Middle East would be only one more dispersion of U.S. effort. The excuse would be the necessity of protecting Israel against Arab vengeance. Or, if Israel's well-trained fighting forces prevailed over their opponents and threatened to keep marching, the excuse then would be the necessity of protecting the Arabs.

The question is not whether this is what the United States wants to do. The United States always wants to do what is right, just, fair, equitable and in behalf of peace; everybody knows that.

The question is whether the United States is strong enough to do everything fine and decent it wants to do. That always has been the question.

That was the question in Vietnam—but no one ever asked it.

Ohioans Wait For Answer

Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes is trying to find out why the U.S. Health, Education and Welfare Department put the kiss of death on Ohio's bid to expand a program of exempting earned income for welfare recipients while approving a New York City plan for the same thing.

Gov. Rhodes pointed out to HEW Secretary John W. Gardner that this program started in Cleveland's Hough area in 1964 proved highly successful.

It was because of this success that the State Legislature enacted a bill designed to extend the program throughout the state. Under the plan, parents on Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) rolls would have been permitted to earn enough money to up their income to 100 per cent of a state-established living cost with no reduction in welfare allowances.

The governor said the income incentive program was pioneered in Hough as a demonstration experiment; and the statewide extension proposal was turned down by HEW on the basis the value of the project had been demonstrated amply.

"If that be the case, why the approval of the New York City project?" the governor asks.

Gov. Rhodes' contention is that if the program's value has been proved in Ohio, how can New York City be granted approval for the same type of plan on the basis it is an experiment.

We think his point is valid.

It seems logical that since Ohio pioneered in the city demonstration, the state should have a chance to see if an expanded program would be equally successful.

If HEW is finished with the entire project for demonstration purposes, as indicated in its rejection of the Ohio proposal, how did New York City get an approval?

The governor and the people of Ohio deserve an answer.

We hope this isn't the case in the stepped-up enforcement of liquor and gambling laws announced Wednesday at Charleston by State Police Supt. W. E. Burchett.

He should have a life expectancy of between 65 and 70 years, enabling his master to look forward to a lifetime of companionship.

Wired For Sound!

A Garrison Finish

By Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON

Sen. Russell Long, the Senate whip, who has become Sen. Dodd's most avid defender, revealed last week that Eberhardt Deutsch, "one of the greatest trial lawyers of all time," had offered his services free of charge to get Sen. Dodd out of the pickle he's in with his Senate colleagues over the ethics issue.

Art Buchwald

Sen. Long also revealed that at one time Jim Garrison, the New Orleans district attorney, had volunteered his services to help Sen. Dodd, but since Garrison became so involved in his own version of the Kennedy assassination, Sen. Long said, "I wouldn't presume to call on him now."

I can't help thinking, on the basis of his performance in the past few months, that the fact that Garrison is tied up is probably the best break Sen. Dodd has had so far. You wonder how Garrison would have defended Sen. Dodd if he had the chance.

FIRST, GARRISON probably would call a press conference and announce he was going to subpoena all six members of the Senate Ethics Committee to testify before a grand jury.

"Why are you going to do that?" he would be asked.

"Because I believe there's a definite conspiracy between the Senate committee, the CIA, the FBI and Oswald. I can't reveal more than that at this moment."

"But what would that have to do with Sen. Dodd?"

"Nothing, but it has a lot to do with Cuba. I can assure you there will be a conviction if I have anything to say about it."

"Mr. Garrison, Sen. Dodd has been charged with using $116,000 raised at political testimonial dinners for his own personal use. How do you plan to answer that?"

"That $116,000 was not a money figure but was a code used by the ethics committee to contact certain people in Dallas. If you subtract 23,456 from that figure and then add all the odd pages in the World Almanac and then divide this by the days in the month of May, you'll discover that the number you arrive at corresponds exactly with Jack Ruby's telephone number."

"But this doesn't answer the charge that the testimonial dinners were advertised as political events and the people who attended them did not know they were paying off Dodd's personal debts."

"I will produce witnesses who have undergone hypnosis and who will testify they knew in advance what kind of dinners they were attending. Only someone under hypnosis knows the real truth about these affairs."

"WHAT ELSE will you do, Mr. Garrison?"

"I plan to issue warrants for the arrest of the four ex-employes who stole Sen. Dodd's correspondence and I will prove beyond a shadow of a doubt that they all had a party two weeks before Dodd fired them. I also will produce as a key witness a narcotics addict who will swear that he saw Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson in a heated discussion with David Ferrie just days before Sen. Dodd gave his fifth testimonial dinner."

"You sound like you've got a solid case."

"I do, and anyone who says I don't will be indicted for perjury."

"Then from what you say this thing is much bigger than just an ethics question in the Senate."

"It certainly is. I may have to indict the entire Senate before I'm finished, but I'll get to the bottom of this or I'm not the Jolly Green Giant."

I'm not saying this is exactly how Garrison would have handled Dodd's case, but on the basis of his track record so far, I think Sen. Dodd can thank his lucky stars he got Eberhardt Deutsch instead.

Don't Undervalue Bomb

By Bruce Biossat

A good proportion of those people who oppose the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam are fundamentally against any sort of bombing as somehow inflicting a worse death than is caused by other means in war.

Since this is an emotional feeling, it really cannot and probably should not be argued with.

It is quite something else, however, to move from expressions of abhorrence over bombing to unsupportable arguments with regard to what it is doing or has done in past wars and this one.

Most recently, some critics of the present bombing, including a few senators, have contended that what happened to the British people in World War II proves that bombing "only stiffens morale" and can have little telling effect in war.

The story of that British experience would surprise some of these critics.

Over-all counting every phase of the air battles and the bombing over Britain, this celebrated assault covered the period from July 1940 to May 1941.

Those Americans old enough to have lived through the period may recall that millions of ordinary Britons in London, Liverpool, Coventry, Bristol, Plymouth and other cities were indeed doughty and courageous under the relentless rain of high explosives and incendiaries delivered by Nazi bombers.

At the height of the assault, Germany raided London for 57 successive nights. An average of 200 bombers a night droned over the city.

But the glow of admiration the free world placed around that horrifying chapter has tended to obscure some important facts.

In the entire July to May period, some 42,000 Britons were killed in Nazi raids and related activity. London itself, blitzed and battered and burned, suffered 21,000 dead.

No one is ever likely to cheer those totals as insiginificant. Yet the fact is that they are small compared to what happened to German and Japanese cities later in World War II.

The British saturation raid on Dresden killed an estimated 135,000 Germans in less than two days. One giant U.S. B-29 fire raid over Tokyo killed 97,000 Japanese in a single night — almost five times the number of Londoners lost in a period of several months.

Allied bombers gutted 6,000 acres of Berlin, 10 times as big an area as was ever bombed out in London. An even larger part of Hamburg was destroyed.

The truth is, as author Telford Taylor observes in his new book, "The Breaking Wave," that the German air force of that time was a vastly overrated machine of war.

Led by the confused Hermann Goering and equipped with planes of dubious quality, it constantly shifted objectives and never finished anything.

The later perspectives on that war raise grave question as to how Britain would have borne up had the Nazi attacks been more severe and more efficient.

Sir Winston Churchill himself, in his history of World War II, says this:

"It would be unwise to suppose that if the attack had been 10 or 20 times as severe — or perhaps even two or three times as severe — the healthy reactions I have described (the raids stimulating action, comradeship, clarity of view would have followed."

Elsewhere in those writings Churchill adds:

"It is difficult to compare the ordeal of the Londoners . . . with that of the Germans in the last three years of the war. In this latter phase the bombs were much more powerful and the raids far more intense."

Churchill is perhaps a sufficient authority on this subject, since it was his ringing words, delivered months before the heavy German assaults, that did more than German bombs to lift and sustain British morale at the war's turning point.

This 'n That

Although the U.S. presidential residence was first referred to in wiriting as the White House in 1811, the name did not become official until 1902, when Theodore Roosevelt put it on all the official stationery.

The Big Chief?

By David Lawrence

How About Defense Secretary!

Who is really running the war in Vietnam?

The Constitution says there is only one commander-in-chief — the president of the United States.

But evidence is accumulating that virtually supreme power over the management of the armed services has been delegated to the Secretary of Defense. This contradicts both the spirit and the letter of the Constitution.

The National Security Act of 1947 permits delegation of administrative duties to the Secretary of Defense, but there is nowhere in the statute any transfer of authority or control over decisions in war operations.

The question was studied and reported on by a special committee appointed by President Eisenhower in 1953, as the Korean War was coming to an end. The document submitted to the House Armed Services Committee is mostly concerned with the functioning of the Department of Defense in peacetime. It says in part:

"It (the committee) does not believe that it is possible — for administrative purposes — to make a sufficiently clear distinction between military affairs, on the one hand, and on the other hand civilian affairs — such as political, economic, and industrial affairs — to serve as a practicable basis for dividing responsibility between military and civilian officers, or for establishing two parallel lines of command."

THE FORMULA followed ever since makes the Secretary of Defense virtually commander-in-chief. He makes the decision as to the size of the forces to be recruited and sent on foreign missions. He may "assign or reassign the development and operational use of new weapons or weapons systems to one or more of the military departments or one or more of the armed forces."

The secretary, to be sure, is obliged to report to Congress the details of any action he proposes to take.

Nowhere in the law, however, are military officers of the government — including the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff — given authority to put into effect their own conclusions or expert opinions on how military operations shall be conducted.

Congress can, by resolution, check at any time the action of the Secretary of Defense, but it has to be fully informed.

Few of the higher military officers would wish to go before a congressional committee, unless invited. Chances are that if they sought an invitation, this would be considered insubordination.

The United States is engaged in a large war involving nearly a half million members of the armed services.

Cost is running into many billions of dollars a year.

But the duties of the commander-in-chief are being performed, in effect, by the Secretary of Defense. He makes recommendations and interprets the proposals of the military men. While President Johnson has occasional conferences with the military chiefs, they do not as a rule have separate consultations with him.

NEVER BEFORE has such a system been operated during a major war. In both World War I and World War II, the highest military officers were in constant contact with the President.

In World War I, the commander of America's overseas army, Gen. John J. Pershing, reported directly to the chief of staff of the U.S. Army in Washington, who in turn consulted almost daily with the President.

In World War II, members of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff met with the President three or four times a week. There were instances when even the civilian secretaries at the head of the armed services were purposely not informed of certain plans for attacking the enemy.

Today military strategy is far from secret. Civilians have their say and can over-rule or nullify military decisions if they think considerations of an international political nature should take precedence.

The whole subject needs exposition in a comprehensive manner by a committee of Congress.

Certainly if the current system is maintained and another world war breaks out, it is doubtful whether the setup can be changed overnight so as to attain maximum efficiency in the use of military power.

sion to put a brake on the crisis.

The United States and Britain pressed the Soviet Union to join the three Western allies in the effort but a disptach from Moscow said Soviet officials were stalling on giving a clear answer to British pleas presented in Moscow by Foreign Secretary George Brown.

In other developments:

President Johnson was flying to Canada for what the White House in Washington said was a trip to confer with Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson and a visit to the Canadian world's fair, Expo 67 at Montreal. Canada played a key role in the calling of an emergency session of the U.N. Security Council Wednesday on the Middle East.

India threw its support behind Egypt's right to block Israeli shipping into the Gulf of Aqaba. Foreign Minister M. C. Chagla told Parliament India considers the gulf to be the territorial waters of both Egypt and Saudia Arabi, although the Israeli port of Elath is at the head of the gulf.

Algeria offered to send troops to help Egypt in the event of a fight with the Israelis.

Syria ordered the mobilization of a 250,000-man civilian guard called for the Popular Army.

A major stumbling block to easing tensions was Egypt's proclaimed blockade of Israeli shipping to and from its southern port of Elath, on the Gulf of Aqaba, its link to East Africa, Asia and Iranian oil.

Despite Nasser's reported willingness to "facilitate" Thant's peace mission, it was doubted that he would lift the blockade, which Israel has said it would not permit.

However, there was no word of any Israeli attempt to challenge the Egyptian guns and patrol boats guarding the Strait of Tiran, the entrance from the Red Sea into the gulf. No Israeli ships have been reported en route to the gulf, and an official at Elath said no ships were docked there.

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram reported that Egyptian authorities in the gulf stopped and searched two German ships Wednesday and allowed them to continue after learning their destination was Aqaba, Jordan's port within sight of Elath.

A six-ship amphibious force of the U.S. 6th Fleet left Naples today with 2,000 Marines aboard while the fleet's flagship, the guided missile cruiser Little Rock, left its base at Gaeta, 36 miles north of Naples.

U.S. Navy officers at Naples said both sailings were part of regular operations scheduled before the current threat of fighting in the Middle East. They would not say where in the Mediterranean the ships were going or whether they would join a 6th Fleet carrier task force in eastern waters.

At U.N. headquarters in New York, the Security Council met to discuss the Middle East. But the only developments were U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg's urging for a big-power peace effort and a Soviet demand for withdrawal of U.S. and British warships from the Mediterranean.

Al Ahram, which often speaks for Nasser, said Egypt is prepared to facilitate Thant's mission "in all aspects that do not jeopardize the rights of sovereignty and security of the Arabs." It did not elaborate.

Reliable sources said Thant proposed an armistice commission under U.N. supervision similar to the one dissolved in 1956 after Israel refused to participate.

Egyptian sources said Egypt would be willing to endorse establishment of such a commission.

Thant held his first meeting with Nasser Wednesday night shortly before Cairo was blacked out in a test air raid alert.

A U.N. spokesman said Thant probably would leave Cairo for New York tonight, a full day ahead of his previously announced schedule. The spokesman said he had no explanation for the change of plans but there was speculation that the reason was Thant's apparent success with Nasser.

Al Ahram said Nasser did most of the talking in his four-hour meeting with Thant. It said he gave a detailed explanation of Egypt's "rightful action" in closing the Gulf of Aqaba to Israeli shipping and in massing troops in the Sinai Desert to ward off "impending Israeli invasion against Syria."

Egypt and Syria moved troops to Israel's southwestern and northeastern borders after Israel threatened to retaliate for Arab raids into its territory. Saudi Arabia ordered general mobilization of its forces Wednesday and Iraq said it would send land and air forces to support Egypt and Syria.

Saudi Arabia and Iraq do not have borders with Israel but it was announced that Jordan, which does, granted these nations permission to move troops into Jordan as part of over-all Arab military planning.

Israel seemed suspended half way between peace and war. Military traffic increased, there were bank withdrawals and runs on grocery stores and the public was urged to prepare home air raid shelters.

Daily offerings will go to the Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP) in famine-stricken India.

Participating churches are the Methodist, Nazarene, First Christian, First Presbyterian and United Presbyterian. Children not registered in their own churches may register the first day at school.

bered year, the issue would have needed only a majority vote for passage.

Wellsville officials said Wednesday they would like to resubmit the levy in another special election before fall to avoid continued curtailment of extra-curricular activities instituted in March to maintain competitive salary schedules for teachers.

But present law permits only one special election per year. To hold another, the legislature would have to repeal this section — which is exactly what the officials from Wellsville want.

Also testifying in support of the two bills were superintendents of three of Tuscarawas County's four local school districts, plus the county's superintendent of schools.

Changing the 55 per cent majority needed in special elections to the majority which prevails in general elections is a major recommendation of the Ohio School Survey Commission. Informed sources indicated it also will be suggested by the "super commission" currently reviewing findings of the School Survey Commission and the Ohio Tax Study Commission.

The School Survey Commission pointed out that approval of local school issues has declined from 95 per cent in 1960 to 77 per cent last November—even with only a majority vote required.

Among new legislation introduced Wednesday in the house was a measure proposed by Rep. Walter Paulo, R-Mahoning, to raise sales taxes on cigarettes from 5 to 8 cents a pack.

Assuming the same volume of cigarettes would be sold after the tax were put into effect as were sold in 1966, Paulo said, revenues from this source would be increased $41.6 million, to $109 million for the year. Cigarette taxes go into the state's general fund.

sion — when allied casualties were severe.

With the announcement that U.S. and South Vietnamese forces were again clear of the zone, the United States appeared to be trying to restore it to something of the buffer status it was supposed to have under the Geneva agreements of 1954 which divided Vietnam and set up the zone. Whether the North Vietnamese would refrain from again infiltrating the cleared-out area appeared questionable.

More heavy air raids over North Vietnam and occasionally sharp ground fighting in South Vietnam were reported by the U.S. Command today.

A Navy F4 Skyhawk jet was reported downed in Wednesday's strikes near Thanh Hoa — the 559th combat loss of the air war against the North — but the pilot was saved by a helicopter rescue.

U.S. headquarters reported most ground fighting again was in the northern area near the demilitarized zone and along the western edge of the central highlands.

In the highlands southwest of Pleiku, a company of the 4th Infantry Division was hit by a North Vietnamese unit of unknown size in a sharp hour and a half battle Wednesday. The Communists poured in a mortar barrage and about 70 rockets and the Americans replied with air attacks and artillery. When it was over, there were 35 North Vietnamese dead, five Americans killed and 14 wounded.

The fighting in the north below the demilitarized zone was limited to scattered actions.

In the Mekong Delta about 40 miles below Saigon, Communist guerrillas caught two plastic-hulled U.S. Navy patrol boats in a bracket of bazooka and machine-gun fire, killing four and wounding five of the 10 sailors aboard the two small vessels. Despite the damage, both boats were saved.

The weather over the North continued to improve, U.S. headquarters said, and Navy, Air Force and Marine planes were out in force against targets ranging deep into North Vietnam.

Reporting on Wednesday's 112 missions over the North, the headquarters said four railroad yards and two sidings north of Hanoi were among the targets.

The Navy reported the destroyer Ozbourn was shelled Wednesday by a Communist shore battery firing from the northern half of the demilitarized zone. The Ozbourn was not hit and opened up with her forward 5-inch guns, silencing the Red battery.

The Army reported a confused incident in which one civilian was killed and 28 wounded by fire from armed helicopters. The civilians had gone into an area which had been under attack earlier to recover the silk from parachute flares. A South Vietnamese militia unit fired over the civilians' heads to drive them off.

sion to put a brake on the crisis.

The United States and Britain pressed the Soviet Union to join the three Western allies in the effort but a disptach from Moscow said Soviet officials were stalling on giving a clear answer to British pleas presented in Moscow by Foreign Secretary George Brown.

In other developments:

President Johnson was flying to Canada for what the White House in Washington said was a trip to confer with Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson and a visit to the Canadian world's fair, Expo 67 at Montreal. Canada played a key role in the calling of an emergency session of the U.N. Security Council Wednesday on the Middle East.

India threw its support behind Egypt's right to block Israeli shipping into the Gulf of Aqaba. Foreign Minister M. C. Chagla told Parliament India considers the gulf to be the territorial waters of both Egypt and Saudia Arabi, although the Israeli port of Elath is at the head of the gulf.

Algeria offered to send troops to help Egypt in the event of a fight with the Israelis.

Syria ordered the mobilization of a 250,000-man civilian guard called for the Popular Army.

A major stumbling block to easing tensions was Egypt's proclaimed blockade of Israeli shipping to and from its southern port of Elath, on the Gulf of Aqaba, its link to East Africa, Asia and Iranian oil.

Despite Nasser's reported willingness to "facilitate" Thant's peace mission, it was doubted that he would lift the blockade, which Israel has said it would not permit.

However, there was no word of any Israeli attempt to challenge the Egyptian guns and patrol boats guarding the Strait of Tiran, the entrance from the Red Sea into the gulf. No Israeli ships have been reported en route to the gulf, and an official at Elath said no ships were docked there.

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram reported that Egyptian authorities in the gulf stopped and searched two German ships Wednesday and allowed them to continue after learning their destination was Aqaba, Jordan's port within sight of Elath.

A six-ship amphibious force of the U.S. 6th Fleet left Naples today with 2,000 Marines aboard while the fleet's flagship, the guided missile cruiser Little Rock, left its base at Gaeta, 36 miles north of Naples.

U.S. Navy officers at Naples said both sailings were part of regular operations scheduled before the current threat of fighting in the Middle East. They would not say where in the Mediterranean the ships were going or whether they would join a 6th Fleet carrier task force in eastern waters.

At U.N. headquarters in New York, the Security Council met to discuss the Middle East. But the only developments were U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg's urging for a big-power peace effort and a Soviet demand for withdrawal of U.S. and British warships from the Mediterranean.

Al Ahram, which often speaks for Nasser, said Egypt is prepared to facilitate Thant's mission "in all aspects that do not jeopardize the rights of sovereignty and security of the Arabs." It did not elaborate.

Reliable sources said Thant proposed an armistice commission under U.N. supervision similar to the one dissolved in 1956 after Israel refused to participate.

Egyptian sources said Egypt would be willing to endorse establishment of such a commission.

Thant held his first meeting with Nasser Wednesday night shortly before Cairo was blacked out in a test air raid alert.

A U.N. spokesman said Thant probably would leave Cairo for New York tonight, a full day ahead of his previously announced schedule. The spokesman said he had no explanation for the change of plans but there was speculation that the reason was Thant's apparent success with Nasser.

Al Ahram said Nasser did most of the talking in his four-hour meeting with Thant. It said he gave a detailed explanation of Egypt's "rightful action" in closing the Gulf of Aqaba to Israeli shipping and in massing troops in the Sinai Desert to ward off "impending Israeli invasion against Syria."

Egypt and Syria moved troops to Israel's southwestern and northeastern borders after Israel threatened to retaliate for Arab raids into its territory. Saudi Arabia ordered general mobilization of its forces Wednesday and Iraq said it would send land and air forces to support Egypt and Syria.

Saudi Arabia and Iraq do not have borders with Israel but it was announced that Jordan, which does, granted these nations permission to move troops into Jordan as part of over-all Arab military planning.

Israel seemed suspended half way between peace and war. Military traffic increased, there were bank withdrawals and runs on grocery stores and the public was urged to prepare home air raid shelters.

bered year, the issue would have needed only a majority vote for passage.

Wellsville officials said Wednesday they would like to resubmit the levy in another special election before fall to avoid continued curtailment of extra-curricular activities instituted in March to maintain competitive salary schedules for teachers.

But present law permits only one special election per year. To hold another, the legislature would have to repeal this section — which is exactly what the officials from Wellsville want.

Also testifying in support of the two bills were superintendents of three of Tuscarawas County's four local school districts, plus the county's superintendent of schools.

Changing the 55 per cent majority needed in special elections to the majority which prevails in general elections is a major recommendation of the Ohio School Survey Commission. Informed sources indicated it also will be suggested by the "super commission" currently reviewing findings of the School Survey Commission and the Ohio Tax Study Commission.

The School Survey Commission pointed out that approval of local school issues has declined from 95 per cent in 1960 to 77 per cent last November—even with only a majority vote required.

Among new legislation introduced Wednesday in the house was a measure proposed by Rep. Walter Faulo, R-Mahoning, to raise sales taxes on cigarettes from 5 to 8 cents a pack.

GIVEN IN marriage by her parents, the bride wore a full-length gown of French design, fashioned with a five-tier scalloped ruffle of Chantilly lace. The fitted bodice was styled with a Sabrina neckline decorated with sequins and pearls. Long, pointed sleeves and a flounced chapel train completed the bride's gown. A crown of hearts made of crystals and rhinestones held an elbow - length veil of imported silk illusion. A Bible, belonging to Mrs. Joan Koenig, cousin of the bride, was topped with an arrangement of white orchids and stephanots. Satin streamers tied in lovers knots complemented the bridal bouquet. She wore a diamond necklace, a gift of the bridegroom.

In observing the familiar traditions, she wore a diamond and ruby engagement ring which belonged to her late aunt, Mrs. J. T. Watkin, and wore a sixpence in her shoe.

Miss Charlene Shaw, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She wore a full - length gown of yellow chiffon fashioned in the "cage" design over a semi-fitted slip. A jeweled venise lace neckline finished the gown.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Diana Smith, cousin of the bride, and Miss Judy Shaw, cousin of the bridegroom. Their gowns were of pink chiffon styled along the same lines as that of the maid of honor. Crowns of three hearts of crystals and rhinestones held their short veils in place. They carried colonial bouquets of mums and rosebuds, tied with satin streamers which matched their gowns. They wore engraved charm necklaces, gifts of the bride.

Lea Rae Hamilton, flower girl, was gowned in a full-length frock of white, Chantilly lace and chiffon, fashioned with puffed sleeves finished with white rosettes. She carried a basket of yellow rosebuds, pink and white carnations, lily-of-the-valley and babies breath, tied with satin streamers. A crown of crystal and rhinestone hearts held her short veil in place. She also wore an engraved charm necklace, a gift of the bride.

Gary Shaw, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were Glen Smith, cousin of the bride, and James Knight. They received engraved key rings from the bridegroom.

Michael John Walker was ringbearer. He received an engraved ring from the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride chose a beige lace suit with beige accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue suit with blue accessories. Corsages of yellow tea-roses complemented their suits. The bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Anna Thomas, wore a gray and white suit with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

A RECEPTION for 150 followed in the parish hall, with a blue, pink and yellow color theme predominating. The bride's table was centered with a three-tier cake topped with a miniature bridal couple. Silver candelabra completed the setting. A memory candle was lighted in memory of the bride's late uncle, J. T. Watkin.

The Guild of the church was in charge of arrangements. Aides were Mrs. Dorothy Smith, Mrs. Hannah Mains, Mrs. Nellie Figley, Mrs. Ramona Treadway, Mrs. Jo Ann Hilliard and Mrs. Grace Thornberry.

Mrs. Linda Burlingame registered guests from Lisbon, West Point, Wellsville, Columbiana, Rogers, Kensington, East Palestine, Cleveland, Chester, Midland, McKeesport, Pittsburgh, North Carolina, New Jersey and Florida.

For her honeymoon to Niagara Falls and Canade, the bride chose a dress of pink crepe with beige accessories and her bridal orchids.

The bride was graduated from East Liverpool High School in 1962. Her husband, a graduate of Beaver Local High School, is stationed with the Army at Ft. Irwin, Calif.

She will reside with her parents.

The rehearsal party was held at the home of the bridegroom's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Shaw of Columbiana.

'Death Of A President' Not Selling As Expected

By HAL COOPER

NEW YORK (AP) — Many book dealers across the country reported Tuesday that sales of William Manchester's "The Death of a President" have fallen far short of expectations.

The controversial account of John F. Kennedy's assassination landed on retail shelves early last month in a blaze of sensational publicity. Trade sources thought the book might become the runaway best-seller of the 20th century.

But a national survey indicated things haven't worked out that way.

The publisher, Harper & Row, said the initial printing of 600,000 copies was sold out to retailers but acknowledged that thousands of the books have been returned by dealers. Firm plans for a second printing have yet to be made.

"We'll have to print more, but as yet we don't know how many or how soon," said Frank Scioscia, Harper & Row's sales manager.

Many book retailers complained that discount stores had skimmed off the cream by cutting the price of the Manchester book from the publisher-recommended $10 to as little as $5.

A few dealers reported that the book was selling about as well as they had expected. They said it probably would enjoy a slow but steady demand for years.

More typically, Stuart Brent, a major independent retailer in Chicago, said: "The book is dead and has been for weeks. It never really took off. Considering the incredible buildup, it never did sell."

Stanely Loth, manager of Brentano's in Washington, said on the other hand, "We're quite satisfied with the way the book is selling. There is no real way of knowing how many more we could have sold if there had been no discounting."

Louis Epstein, owner of a store in Hollywood, Calif., said he had expected to sell 2,500 or more copies, but had found only 600 or 700 buyers. "In no way does it match my expectations," he said.

Comments from stores in Massachusetts, President Kennedy's home state, ranged from, "The book is doing very well" to, "We didn't do what we expected with it."

A store in Hyannis Port, where the Kennedy family has a summer home, reported, "We're selling it but not like we expected to. Perhaps the serialization in Look magazine satisfied some potential readers, who then passed up the book."

The book got a mixed reception in Detroit.

A major chain, Hudsons, which discounted the price, said more than 5,000 copies had been sold—"the greatest sale of any book we ever had."

But a spokesman for Marwil's store near the campus of Wayne State University, declared: "It's just like the title. It's dead." Marwil's maintained the $10 price.

Cokesbury in Atlanta, which is selling the book for $10, described advance orders as "excellent, above our expectations" and said sales have continued "slow but steady."

Kroch's and Brentano's, Inc., in Chicago said more than 3,000 of the 4,000 volumes ordered had been sold at $10 apiece. "The book has done exceedingly well," a store spokesman said.

From Dallas, scene of the assassination, there were conflicting returns.

"It's our No. 1 non-fiction book, outselling everything else at about 200 copies a week," said J.B. Albright, manager of the Cokesbury book store, which does a big mail order business.

"Sales have been about a third less than what I'd figured," said William Gilliland, manager of the Doubleday shop.

"I think we sold about three in the last three weeks," said Carl Bigke, manager of the Dallas House of Books. "I think the interest in it is over. The people buying it now say they're putting it away for their kids to read as a good history book—not that they want to read it themselves."

Sales Manager Scioscia of Harper & Row said all of the 600,000 initial printing had been sold to bookstores by May 7, one month after the official publication date. The department estimated that 500,000 of these copies had been sold to the public.

"We found that some stores had too few copies, and some had too many," Scioscia said.

"Normally stores that are overstocked start making returns in about three months, and keep at it for as long as a year. But we wanted to speed up this process.

"So we had our salesman tell the overstocked stores to make their returns immediately. By this effort we re-distributed close to 40,000 copies."

Chest X-Ray Included In Health Event

A free chest X-ray is one of the health screening tests to be offered at the 1967 United Fund Health - O - Rama June 8-11 at Northern Lights Shopping Center.

All visitors over 18 will be given the test free. It is used to detect the possibility of lung cancer, enlarged heart and tuberculosis. Last year of the 7,476 X-rays provided, 517 persons were referred to their family physicians for further diagnosis because the X-rays indicated the possibility of a health problem.

The X-ray, administered and read by training technicians, is important in its ability to reveal chest disorders before any symptoms are noticeable. In many cases these disorders can be treated before the problem reaches an advanced incurable stage.

Again this year the Health-O-Rama program is sponsored by the United Funds of Beaver County in cooperation with the county commissioners and the Pennsylvania and Beaver County Medical societies.

Eight free health tests plus numerous health displays and literature will be available from noon to 10 p.m. June 8 through June 10, and from 2 to 10 p.m June 11.

Midland Council Readies Plans For Tennis Courts

Advertising of bids for Midland's new tennis courts was authorized and opening of the Veterans' Memorial Pool was announced when the Midland Borough Council met Wednesday night.

Granville Kester, representative of Michael Baker Jr., Inc., of Rochester, Borough Engineer, announced that plans and specifications have been completed for new tennis courts at 13th St. and Midland Ave.

He said plans call for two double courts and one single court completely fenced and lighted for night recreation.

William Vinovich, council president and chairman of the pool committee, said the pool will be open Tuesday from 1-9 p.m. On school days next week the hours will be 4-9 p.m., and on all other days following, 1-9 p.m.

He said all pool personnel have been hired. Nearly all applicants have been given jobs by the pool committee. A briefing meeting for pool personnel will be held Saturday at 7 p.m at the Borough building.

Swimming lessons for youngsters will begin June 5 from 10 a.m. until noon. Lessons for adults will be from noon until 1 p.m.

Vinovich said the prices of season tickets and daily admissions will remain the same—the lowest in the county, with ticket sales Sunday and Monday at the pool from 1-9 p.m. and on Memorial Day at 10 a.m.

He said there will be no night swimming this year because insufficient interest was shown last year with only seven or eight swimmers out on nights when temperatures approached the 80-degree mark. He said area residents also complained about youngsters congregating noisily to watch late swimmers at the pool.

He said child labor laws prohibit female pool personnel under 18 from working past 9 p.m. For these reasons the pool committee felt it advisable not to have night swimming this year.

Councilman Joseph D'Alesio thanked Council on behalf of all the steelworkers for changes made in timing of the 12th St. signal. Police Chief Ed Stefl submitted a full report of improvements to Council.

Chief Stefl said a 25 - second interval is now permitted on green for 12th St. traffic at the mill, where formerly traffic could only move on green for ten seconds.

Under the former arrangement, 37 seconds on green and three seconds on yellow were allowed on Midland Ave. Now 32 seconds on green and three on yellow are allowed.

Automatic operation times were lengthened also, Chief Stefl reported. Where formerly the light worked automatically from 6 to 8 a.m. and 2-5 p.m., the times have been extended 15 minutes to 8:15 a.m. and 5:15 p.m. The light works automatically from 10 p.m. until midnight, also, Chief Stefl said.

The changes were made by the State Department of Highways.

Council spent some time discussing the problem of speeders at the west end of Midland Ave. and the need to install a blinker where children cross the street to play at the playground. Chief Stefl said police are watching the area. It was agreed to make application to the State for a blinker light at this location.

Chief Stefl also requested painting a yellow line for "no parking" the length of two cars at the west end of Penn Ave. at 3rd St. to enable cars to make the turn easier. Council approved this.

Councilman William Shovlin thanked Lou Granito and Matt Brozic of the Borough Street Department for their work in preparing the two Little League fields for play.

Councilman Raymond Presutti asked another letter be sent to Brown Bros. Slag Co. requesting them to properly wet the slag when it is crushed, since the area is very dusty and many residents have called the Borough Building to complain about the heavy dust.

Edward Cilli, assistant Borough secretary, said the company had promised back in September to work at correcting the situation, but as yet, no relief has been received from heavy dust at the area. Council approved sending another letter to the company requesting cooperation in stopping heavy dust at the Springlane area.

Presutti said several Midland motorists and residents have been bothered and one woman motorist became ill on fumes from a passing bus transporting passengers from East Liverpool to Beaver Valley. Council will check with the bus company about the heavy exhaust and fumes.

The Borough Engineer reported that work will proceed on installation of back - water valves to alleviate the flooding situation in Midland, as planned and reported to Council a number of months ago.

Councilman Joseph Hibbard, chairman of the tree committee, said all work will be completed as soon as tree stumps can be removed and planting of trees on Virginia Ave. can be finished.

Council authorized renewal of the Borough employes pension program in June, in response to a suggestion by Councilman Joseph D'Alesio, chairman of the Labor Committee, and the awarding of a $500 death benefit to the heirs of Tom Trbovich.

D'Alesio, president of Local 1212, United Steelworkers of America, requested police aid in controlling traffic at the Union election June 8 at the CIO Hall. Council approved stationing a patrolman at the area to direct traffic during the all-day election of the 5,600 - member union.

Mayor Eli G. Corak congratulated Council incumbents for success in the primary election.

In response to a letter of congratulations mailed to Dennis Wuysic of the championship Ambridge basketball team by Council when he was selected for the WPIAL team, Dennis wrote back to the Borough, thanking Mayor Corak, the Council and Midlanders for their best wishes. He stated, "It is through efforts like this to help that we will leave a heritage of hope in humanity."

In other business, Council authorized curb - cutting under the supervision of the Borough engineer by Dean Rajak, building a home in the 1000 block of Virginia Ave., and to Milan Postich for a driveway at 6th St. and Penn Ave.

Council agreed to the installation of a 15-minute zone at the first meter at 8th St. and Midland Ave. in front of the new Dollar Savings and Loan office in response to a request from Lester W. Smith Jr., branch manager.

Bills totaling $2,640 were approved for payment.

3-Cent Hike Proposed On Cigarettes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A cigar- smoking lawmaker from Mahoning County has introduced in the Ohio House a bill to raise the state's 5-cent tax on cigarettes to 8 cents a pack.

Rep. Walter H. Paulo R-83 Canfield, Mahoning, called the cigarette tax "a good source for needed revenue," introduced the proposal Wednesday as the House deliberated over a need for more funds for education.

Finance Committee Chairman Ralph Fisher R-24 Wayne reaffirmed during House discussion of the administration's $4.9 billion budget bill that at least $220 million in additional money is needed for education.

Paulo, who has "always been a cigar smoker," conceded that his was not an adminitration bill but he asserted it has the backing of "the right people."

The boost would bring Ohio's tax on cigarettes to the level of many other states yet keep it below some who impose as much as 9 to 10 cents on a package, he said.

His bill would yield an estimated $42 million a year which would go into the state's general revenue fund.

After Battle With Catholic Church

Mother And Nuns Find 'Ideal Spot' In Vancouver

MILL BAY, B.C. (AP) — On a sheltered eastern slope of Vancouver Island above the misty-blue Strait of Georgia live five Roman Catholic nuns and 250 assorted animals.

Under the direction of Mother Mary Cecilia, 78, they operate the Good Shepherd Animal Shelter. Almost two years after threatening to leave the Catholic Church, the five nuns live in apparent truce with church authorities.

Since the day in 1961 when Mother Cecilia used her father's $60,000 inheritance to buy a 2½-acre site in a Victoria suburb for a small kennel to house a few unwanted dogs, she and her small band of followers have faced one crisis after another.

In February 1963 the Saanich zoning board refused permission to expand the kennels. A month later biscuits, believed poisoned, were found near the shelter. Abusive telephone calls followed with complaints about the barking of the dogs.

Twenty-three families in the neighborhood sent a petition to Pope Paul VI complaining of the noise and declining property values.

Victoria Bishop Remy de Roo said the nuns should return to their priory to help in the organization of their order, the Sisters of the Love of Jesus.

Mother Cecilia said then: "This is God's work, a work of mercy, and under no circumstances will I close the shelter."

In 1964, it was reported that the nuns were ignoring a church order to close the shelter. Mother Cecilia claimed the church merely wanted to gain control of the shelter's assets, a charge denied by church authorities.

She dispatched Sister Mary Agnes to Rome to present the nun's side of the story. The sister returned with the message that the nuns at the shelter would be forced to become lay persons unless they gave up their work with the animals.

The shelter moved to a 60-acre site 25 miles north of Victoria in March 1966.

The change in location soothed both parties in the dispute.

"We never hear anything about it any more so I imagine it's settled," Mother Cecilia said.

A spokesman for the Victoria diocese says Mother Cecilia's move to the new site has eased any tension since the work at Mill Bay "doesn't interfere with the rights of other people."

Living in a modern split-level home, with its recreation room converted into a chapel, the nuns care for the dogs, cats, horses, goats, chickens, and birds that are quartered in 10 buildings.

Group Plans CD Shelters For Hancock

WEIRTON — Plans for a community Civil defense shelter for Brooke and Hancock counties have been advanced with the organization of the policy board for the project.

The board consists of members of the Weirton and Brooke and Hancock planning commissions, Civil Defense directors for the two counties and a representative of the Weirton Steel Co.

Ray Shaw, chairman and project leader, said the board includes Weirton Mayor Frank Rybka; Weirton City Manager James W. Lord; Walter Harvey, Brooke County commissioner; Jack Evans, Hancock County Court, and Oliver Johnson, Hancock County Planning Commission.

Other members named to the committee are Preston E. Jordan and Walter A. Durkin, Brooke County Planning Commission; James B. Riddle and Charles W. Hair, Weirton Planning Commission; Thomas J. Boyd, Brooke County Civil Defense director; Andrew Kondik, Hancock County Civil Defense director, and Norman Ferrari Sr., representative of the Weirton Steel security department.

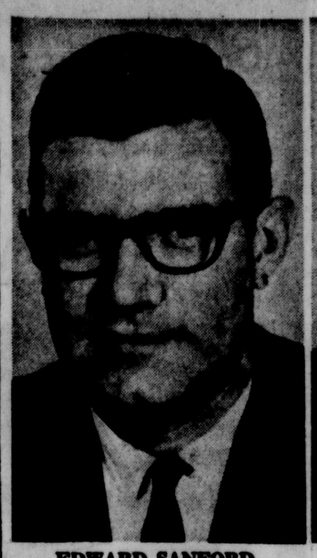

Shaw explained that the community shelter plan will be developed by Barton-Aschman Associates, Inc., of Chicago through a contract with the Army Corps of Engineers. Local Civil Defense personnel will assist in the project.

According to Joseph W. McManus, representative of the consulting firm, "The purpose of the project is to analyze fallout protection currently available and match it to population. Where public shelter is not readily available to the people, the plan seeks to find other fallout protection to meet their needs."

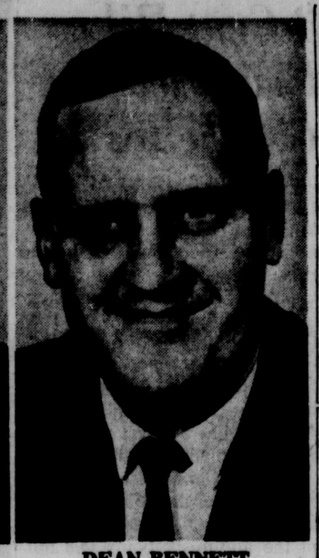

The Office of Civil Defense and the U. S. Bureau of the Census are now conducting a mail self - survey throughout West Virginia to identify home fallout protection. Previous local survey work has identified the location and capacity of public fallout shelters.

The survey found 76 buildings with a potential space for 14,488 persons. Most of this public shelter is located in downtown areas, with lesser amounts in suburban and rural areas.

Barton - Aschman Associates is also the planning consultant for the two - year Brooke - Hancock - Jefferson comprehensive planning program.

Pilot Shot Down Near Haiphong Tells Of Rescue

SAIGON (AP) — The Phantom jet fighter was careening wildly across the night sky over North Vietnam and the only thing left to do was reach beneath the seat and pull the handle that pilots call "the next-of-kin ring."

But after a night in the jungle and one of the most harrowing rescues of the Vietnam war, sandy-haired Dave Baldwin, 24, and only two years out of the University of Indiana, is returning to combat and cheerfully intent on making a long career in the Air Force.

Flown to Saigon today, Baldwin telephoned his wife waiting in Dunkirk, Ind., with their 3-month-old son he has never seen. He told her he counts himself the luckiest of men.

Monday night Baldwin took off on his 57th combat mission over North Vietnam, in the second seat of a Phantom behind a pilot now missing in action.

"It was a little after dark and we were inbound on the target," he related in an interview.

"We had been picking up antiaircraft fire all the way in. It was about as bad as I've ever seen it. I remember seeing it in front of us and looking out and seeing tracers everywhere. There was no place to go but to press on in."

"Then the aircraft commander said 'Dave, we've been hit.' The aircraft gave a little shudder but I didn't think we were hit bad.

"Then he said we were losing fuel. Then in another few seconds we began to lose our flight controls. It kept getting worse."

Baldwin and the pilot decided to risk a few more minutes in the bucking plane and try for the coast, where chances of rescue were infinitely better.

The Phantom veered and snapped wildly. Only the rudder was left and the pilot was fighting it manually, which requires about 150 pounds of pressure. The plane was losing altitude and making only slight headway.

They decided to turn on the after burner to try for more altitude, although its bright flash in the night sky would certainly draw more antiaircraft fire.

"The antiaircraft fire opened up again then," Baldwin said. "We lost a piece of rudder. Whether we were hit again I don't know. We were still losing altitude but fighting to make it across the one big ridgeline that was between us and the sea.

"It became apparent we weren't going to make it. The pilot said, 'Okay, Dave, this is as far as we can get. I'll try and get her as stable as possible.' Then he said, 'Okay, Dave, we've got to get out,' and I reached for the ejection ring."

That was the last word Baldwin had from the pilot, whose identity is being withheld until his next of kin are notified.

"I pulled the ejection handle and the next thing I knew I was hanging from a tree," said Baldwin. "I saw the wrecked plane burning down the ridgeline only about 150 or 200 yards away. The fire was so intense anyone around there could have seen me. I got free and tumbled down the slope. I wanted to get away from that fire."

Baldwin was in deep jungle northeast of Haiphong. He heard voices nearby and some sporadic firing. He couldn't see more than 15 feet. He clutched his rescue radio and stumbled through the undergrowth looking for a clearing.

A flight of propeller-driven Skyraiders came over and spotted the burning Phantom on the ridge. The leader radioed Baldwin that a helicopter was already in the air.

"I was elated," said Baldwin. "In the area we were in I didn't think we had any chance of being picked up at all."

For two hours he huddled in the jungle waiting for the chopper. When it came his hopes for freedom were dashed Trying to find him, it was hit by ground fire. A crewman was wounded. The chopper began losing fuel. It had to leave. The circling Skyraider pilots also had to leave — after sending a message that another rescue attempt would be made at daybreak.

"It got pretty quiet around there for a while," Baldwin went on. "I was thinking of what to do. I would have tried everything possible before surrendering. Those people up there don't care for us."

Through the night he heard voices and random firing. He could see a distant village in the valley with many lights burning all night. At times people passed fairly close, but in the deep jungle they could not see him nor he them.

At dawn a heavy fog covered the area. Baldwin again thought rescue was impossible. But the Skyraiders showed up overhead and in an hour the fog began to lift. Baldwin thrashed through the jungle looking for a clearing, always clutching his small rescue radio. Finally he found a rocky elevation which gave him a tiny view of the sky — a small window high above his head with a few peripheral breaks in the trees.

"I heard the chopper and I heard them firing at it," said Baldwin. "I was trying to give him flying instructions to find me. The chopper never did see me. It finally got as close as it could and I told him to drop the penetrator" — the long cable for jungle rescues.

Baldwin scampered to it, jerked at it and missed. It started to rise and Baldwin said, "Oh, No! Oh, No!" Then the chopper pilot realized he hadn't made contact and dropped the penetrator again. The firing by then was very close.

Baldwin grasped the cable seat and started up, his head banging on the close-knit trees as he went up.

"That was the greatest feeling in the world," he said.

He was jerked into the chopper and fell exhausted to the floor. The crew quickly poked the machine gun back out the hatch and it was firing as they sped off.

But it wasn't over.

The helicopter's copilot came back and told Baldwin they were low on fuel. They might not make the coast. Another rescue chopper was on the way.

"We started to throw everything overboard to lighten the load," said Baldwin. "As we came over the coast, we again came under fire. But we made it. We had only 25 gallons of fuel when we reached the ship, and that's not much for a chopper.

"They gave me a cup of hot coffee and a shot of brandy. That was mighty fine. I wouldn't have made it if my aircraft commander hadn't held that plane together for those extra minutes and the Navy hadn't made an all-out effort. I spent my time on that ship thanking those people."

Baldwin had landed on the guided-missile frigate Worden. He was transferred to the carrier Bon Homme Richard, where he was outfitted with a Navy officer's khaki uniform. He wore it proudly today.

Pilot Shot Down Near Haiphong Tells Of Rescue

SAIGON (AP) — The Phantom jet fighter was careening wildly across the night sky over North Vietnam and the only thing left to do was reach beneath the seat and pull the handle that pilots call "the next-of-kin ring."

But after a night in the jungle and one of the most harrowing rescues of the Vietnam war, sandy-haired Dave Baldwin, 24, and only two years out of the University of Indiana, is returning to combat and cheerfully intent on making a long career in the Air Force.

Flown to Saigon today, Baldwin telephoned his wife waiting in Dunkirk, Ind., with their 3-month-old son he has never seen. He told her he counts himself the luckiest of men.

Monday night Baldwin took off on his 57th combat mission over North Vietnam, in the second seat of a Phantom behind a pilot now missing in action.

"It was a little after dark and we were inbound on the target," he related in an interview.

"We had been picking up antiaircraft fire all the way in. It was about as bad as I've ever seen it. I remember seeing it in front of us and looking out and seeing tracers everywhere. There was no place to go but to press on in."

"Then the aircraft commander said 'Dave, we've been hit.' The aircraft gave a little shudder but I didn't think we were hit bad.

"Then he said we were losing fuel. Then in another few seconds we began to lose our flight controls. It kept getting worse."

Baldwin and the pilot decided to risk a few more minutes in the bucking plane and try for the coast, where chances of rescue were infinitely better.

The Phantom veered and snapped wildly. Only the rudder was left and the pilot was fighting it manually, which requires about 150 pounds of pressure. The plane was losing altitude and making only slight headway.

They decided to turn on the after burner to try for more altitude, although its bright flash in the night sky would certainly draw more antiaircraft fire.

"The antiaircraft fire opened up again then," Baldwin said. "We lost a piece of rudder. Whether we were hit again I don't know. We were still losing altitude but fighting to make it across the one big ridgeline that was between us and the sea.

"It became apparent we weren't going to make it. The pilot said, 'Okay, Dave, this is as far as we can get. I'll try and get her as stable as possible.' Then he said, 'Okay, Dave, we've got to get out,' and I reached for the ejection ring."

That was the last word Baldwin had from the pilot, whose identity is being withheld until his next of kin are notified.

"I pulled the ejection handle and the next thing I knew I was hanging from a tree," said Baldwin. "I saw the wrecked plane burning down the ridgeline only about 150 or 200 yards away. The fire was so intense anyone around there could have seen me. I got free and tumbled down the slope. I wanted to get away from that fire."

Baldwin was in deep jungle northeast of Haiphong. He heard voices nearby and some sporadic firing. He couldn't see more than 15 feet. He clutched his rescue radio and stumbled through the undergrowth looking for a clearing.

A flight of propeller-driven Skyraiders came over and spotted the burning Phantom on the ridge. The leader radioed Baldwin that a helicopter was already in the air.

"I was elated," said Baldwin. "In the area we were in I didn't think we had any chance of being picked up at all."

For two hours he huddled in the jungle waiting for the chopper. When it came his hopes for freedom were dashed Trying to find him, it was hit by ground fire. A crewman was wounded. The chopper began losing fuel. It had to leave. The circling Skyraider pilots also had to leave — after sending a message that another rescue attempt would be made at daybreak.

"It got pretty quiet around there for a while," Baldwin went on. "I was thinking of what to do. I would have tried everything possible before surrendering. Those people up there don't care for us."

Through the night he heard voices and random firing. He could see a distant village in the valley with many lights burning all night. At times people passed fairly close, but in the deep jungle they could not see him nor he them.

At dawn a heavy fog covered the area. Baldwin again thought rescue was impossible. But the Skyraiders showed up overhead and in an hour the fog began to lift. Baldwin thrashed through the jungle looking for a clearing, always clutching his small rescue radio. Finally he found a rocky elevation which gave him a tiny view of the sky — a small window high above his head with a few peripheral breaks in the trees.

"I heard the chopper and I heard them firing at it," said Baldwin. "I was trying to give him flying instructions to find me. The chopper never did see me. It finally got as close as it could and I told him to drop the penetrator" — the long cable for jungle rescues.

Baldwin scampered to it, jerked at it and missed. It started to rise and Baldwin said, "Oh, No! Oh, No!" Then the chopper pilot realized he hadn't made contact and dropped the penetrator again. The firing by then was very close.

Baldwin grasped the cable seat and started up, his head banging on the close-knit trees as he went up.

"That was the greatest feeling in the world," he said.

He was jerked into the chopper and fell exhausted to the floor. The crew quickly poked the machine gun back out the hatch and it was firing as they sped off.

But it wasn't over.

The helicopter's copilot came back and told Baldwin they were low on fuel. They might not make the coast. Another rescue chopper was on the way.

"We started to throw everything overboard to lighten the load," said Baldwin. "As we came over the coast, we again came under fire. But we made it. We had only 25 gallons of fuel when we reached the ship, and that's not much for a chopper.

"They gave me a cup of hot coffee and a shot of brandy. That was mighty fine. I wouldn't have made it if my aircraft commander hadn't held that plane together for those extra minutes and the Navy hadn't made an all-out effort. I spent my time on that ship thanking those people."

Baldwin had landed on the guided-missile frigate Worden. He was transferred to the carrier Bon Homme Richard, where he was outfitted with a Navy officer's khaki uniform. He wore it proudly today.

Steel Institute Receives Paper On Crucible Process

PITTSBURGH — A presentation describing Crucible Steel Co.'s new TOC facility now under construction at the Midland Works highlighted the technical session of the 75th general meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York City.

The technical paper describing the "Manufacture of Stainless Steel in the Top-blown Oxygen Converter" was written by E. Leonard Kern of Beaver, superintendent in charge of start - up of the new TOC shop; Dr. Clifford W. McCoy, Associate Director of Research - Pyrometallurgy at Crucible's Hunter Research Laboratories, and Dr. Frederick C. Langenberg, Director of Technology, who presented the paper.

Invitation to present a paper before this group is held as a distinct honor for both the company and its authors.

The paper traces the laboratory, pilot and production trials that preceded Crucible's decision to construct the unconventional facility.

Expected to produce quality stainless and introduce economies that should greatly broaden the uses for this prestige metal, the Crucible process is an innovation which promises to revolutionize stainless steel production.

Kern resides at 111 Appletree Dr., Beaver, with his wife and two children. He joined Crucible in 1956 in the coke, iron and steel division. He has held the positions of foreman, melter, assistant superintendent and superintendent of the Electric Furnace Department. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Metallurgical Engineering from Lehigh University.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I remove catsup stains from fabrics?

A.—Act as soon as possible, because age makes these stains hard to deal with. Flush as much of the stain as possible out in a fairly concentrated solution of neutral detergent and water. Lubricate the remaining portions of the stain with glycerin, working it in with the blunt edge of a knife or the back of a spoon. Then flush again with the water - detergent solution.

Q.—How can I clean wrought iron fixtures?

A.—By rubbing with a woolen cloth moistened with any thin oil, such as paraffin or kerosene.

Q.—How can I prevent my wax candles from melting during hot weather?

A.—By painting them with a coat of shellac.

Q.—How can I remove banana stains from fabrics?

A.—Cover the spots with a liberal paste of fuller's earth and water and, after this has dried, brush it off.

Steel Institute Receives Paper On Crucible Process

PITTSBURGH — A presentation describing Crucible Steel Co.'s new TOC facility now under construction at the Midland Works highlighted the technical session of the 75th general meeting of the American Iron and Steel Institute at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York City.

The technical paper describing the "Manufacture of Stainless Steel in the Top-blown Oxygen Converter" was written by E. Leonard Kern of Beaver, superintendent in charge of start - up of the new TOC shop; Dr. Clifford W. McCoy, Associate Director of Research - Pyrometallurgy at Crucible's Hunter Research Laboratories, and Dr. Frederick C. Langenberg, Director of Technology, who presented the paper.

Invitation to present a paper before this group is held as a distinct honor for both the company and its authors.

The paper traces the laboratory, pilot and production trials that preceded Crucible's decision to construct the unconventional facility.

Expected to produce quality stainless and introduce economies that should greatly broaden the uses for this prestige metal, the Crucible process is an innovation which promises to revolutionize stainless steel production.

Kern resides at 111 Appletree Dr., Beaver, with his wife and two children. He joined Crucible in 1956 in the coke, iron and steel division. He has held the positions of foreman, melter, assistant superintendent and superintendent of the Electric Furnace Department. He holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Metallurgical Engineering from Lehigh University.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I remove catsup stains from fabrics?

A.—Act as soon as possible, because age makes these stains hard to deal with. Flush as much of the stain as possible out in a fairly concentrated solution of neutral detergent and water. Lubricate the remaining portions of the stain with glycerin, working it in with the blunt edge of a knife or the back of a spoon. Then flush again with the water - detergent solution.

Q.—How can I clean wrought iron fixtures?

A.—By rubbing with a woolen cloth moistened with any thin oil, such as paraffin or kerosene.

Q.—How can I prevent my wax candles from melting during hot weather?

A.—By painting them with a coat of shellac.

Q.—How can I remove banana stains from fabrics?

A.—Cover the spots with a liberal paste of fuller's earth and water and, after this has dried, brush it off.

Better Training, Equipment

U.S. Experts Say Israel Could Defeat Arab Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. military experts believe Israel's armed forces, although outnumbered, could defeat the combined Arab armies if the big powers stay out.

These experts give the Israelis an edge over the Arabs because of what was described as superior training and better equipment maintenance.

Israel's 300,000 soldiers and airmen stack up against some 400,000 armed men in the Arab states surrounding her, latest estimates indicate.

However, while Israel was said to be able to mobilize and deploy her 300,000 men in a matter of days, the Arab armies are believed able to muster much less than their full strength.

Military specialists expect any open war would pit Israel against four Arab countries primarily—Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Lebanon, all of which immediately border on Israel.

Although Iraq and Saudi Arabia have pledged support, the American experts discount their probable effectiveness on the ground.

This is because Iraq has serious problems with rebellious Kurdish tribesmen and the Saudi-Arabians are embroiled in the Yemen civil war, where 40,000 Egyptian troops also are pinned down on the opposite side of the issue.

Some government sources, however, regard as an open question what Arab nations actually might be involved in a war with Israel.

Nearly all are sure Egypt would be joined by Syria in such a battle, but some think Saudi Arabia, Lebanon and Jordan—although forced by internal pressures to take a stance for Arab unity—are too closely aligned with the United States to actually put massive numbers of troops in the field against Israel.

Arab-Israel Military Bjt Gal 2

U.S. military men believe Israel would have to array about 100,000 of her troops along the Sinai frontier where the main Egyptian thrust could be expected.

Meanwhile, it was said, Israel probably would have to keep a larger force along her northern and eastern frontiers facing Syria, Lebanon and Jordan.

Israel is only about 40 miles wide at some points in the north and a determined thrust by Jordan's army of 50,000 conceivably could cut the country in half.

American military experts rate the Jordanian army as about the best among the Arab nations.

Syria has about 60,000 men under arms. Of these, about 30,000 are believed deployed near Israel while the other 30,000 are held back deeper inside the country, apparently on guard against internal uprisings.

Lebanon has only 10,000 men and only about 1,500 of these are stationed adjacent to Israel. It is considered doubtful the Lebanese would make much of a contribution to the over-all Arab effort.

Egypt has 190,000 men, many of them already mobilized in the Sinai area.

The Israelis, it was understood, have about 150,000 of their 300,000 troops on active duty.

One big question bearing on the military effectiveness of the Arabs is how well their joint command might work. Such a structure has been in existence for several years.

But there are deep-seated rivalries among the Arab countries. Jordan broke diplomatic relations with Syria this week in a dispute over a mining incident along their common boundary.

Directors Plan For Event

Concession Rates Hiked For Annual County Fair

LISBON — Columbiana County fair directors voted Wednesday to raise concession rates approximately 10 per cent and establish a minimum fee of $40.

Ben Weingart of Leetonia, president, presided during the monthly meeting in the secretary's office on the grounds.

Tom Rudebock of Leetonia was appointed to add a "free grandstand" line to the County Fair sign along Route 164 and change the sign dates to Aug. 23-27.

Mrs. Velma Cope, secretary, said directors of 12 high school bands and the county 4-H band have been invited to direct their units in a mass concert at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 27. Participating bands will receive $50 each.

Four bands have been asked to play on fair days at $100 per band.

Directors will renovate the water wagon used to sprinkle track and ground by enlarging its capacity and installing a pump.

The board discussed arranging bus service from East Liverpool to the fairgrounds each evening during the 122nd annual exposition, but took no action. Members and Mrs. Cope said they would like to hear from East Liverpool residents on the proposal.

Galen Greenisen of Salem, race superintendent, said there are 77 entries in the colt stakes. Assisting him on the race committee are Donald Elliott of Rogers and Dick Stockman of Lisbon.

The next meeting will be June 7 at the secretary's office.

Hearing Delayed On County Home Inventory Issue

LISBON — A hearing scheduled in Probate Court Wednesday on an objection by Columbiana County Commissioner James Boyd in connection with an inventory of a resident of the County Home was postponed indefinitely.

Boyd, chairman of the commissioners, took exception to an inventory made by County Home Supt. Robert Boyce on belongings of Mrs. Hattie Snyder, 94, formerly of New Waterford.

Inventories are made of the personal property of all incoming home residents. It is later sold with court permission to offset the cost of the owner's care or converted to county use.

Boyce's inventory for the elderly woman showed a refrigerator and other electrical appliances, a davenport and three chairs, a table, an old butter churn, a lawnmower, a cabinet and other smaller items had been lost in the minor blaze. The total worth of the woman's goods was listed at $500. About half the items were said to be lost.

County Prosecutor J. Warren Bettis, who prepared the legal objection for Boyd, said the ctairman would base his objections on an allegation that fire insurance had not paid for all the items said in the inventory to be lost.

The court ruled yesterday Bettis could not represent Boyce because the prosecutor had drawn up the inventory for Supt. Boyce in 1965.

Montreal's Expo 67's restaurants and snack bars can handle 23,000 diners a day.

Better Training, Equipment

U.S. Experts Say Israel Could Defeat Arab Army

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. military experts believe Israel's armed forces, although outnumbered, could defeat the combined Arab armies if the big powers stay out.

These experts give the Israelis an edge over the Arabs because of what was described as superior training and better equipment maintenance.

Israel's 300,000 soldiers and airmen stack up against some 400,000 armed men in the Arab states surrounding her, latest estimates indicate.

However, while Israel was said to be able to mobilize and deploy her 300,000 men in a matter of days, the Arab armies are believed able to muster much less than their full strength.

Military specialists expect any open war would pit Israel against four Arab countries primarily—Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Lebanon, all of which immediately border on Israel.

Although Iraq and Saudi Arabia have pledged support, the American experts discount their probable effectiveness on the ground.

This is because Iraq has serious problems with rebellious Kurdish tribesmen and the Saudi-Arabians are embroiled in the Yemen civil war, where 40,000 Egyptian troops also are pinned down on the opposite side of the issue.

Some government sources, however, regard as an open question what Arab nations actually might be involved in a war with Israel.

Nearly all are sure Egypt would be joined by Syria in such a battle, but some think Saudi Arabia, Lebanon and Jordan—although forced by internal pressures to take a stance for Arab unity—are too closely aligned with the United States to actually put massive numbers of troops in the field against Israel.

Arab-Israel Military Bjt Gal 2

U.S. military men believe Israel would have to array about 100,000 of her troops along the Sinai frontier where the main Egyptian thrust could be expected.

Meanwhile, it was said, Israel probably would have to keep a larger force along her northern and eastern frontiers facing Syria, Lebanon and Jordan.

Israel is only about 40 miles wide at some points in the north and a determined thrust by Jordan's army of 50,000 conceivably could cut the country in half.

American military experts rate the Jordanian army as about the best among the Arab nations.

Syria has about 60,000 men under arms. Of these, about 30,000 are believed deployed near Israel while the other 30,000 are held back deeper inside the country, apparently on guard against internal uprisings.

Lebanon has only 10,000 men and only about 1,500 of these are stationed adjacent to Israel. It is considered doubtful the Lebanese would make much of a contribution to the over-all Arab effort.

Egypt has 190,000 men, many of them already mobilized in the Sinai area.

The Israelis, it was understood, have about 150,000 of their 300,000 troops on active duty.

One big question bearing on the military effectiveness of the Arabs is how well their joint command might work. Such a structure has been in existence for several years.

But there are deep-seated rivalries among the Arab countries. Jordan broke diplomatic relations with Syria this week in a dispute over a mining incident along their common boundary.

Weirton Man Cleared In Fund Shortage Case

Ronald Mellicone of 101 Emma Way, Weirton, was found not guilty Wednesday in an alleged shortage of $1,225.75 in the state liquor store at the Weirton Heights Shopping Plaza.

The jury, comprised of one woman and 11 men, deliberated 45 minutes after listening to three days of testimony in Hancock County Circuit Court at New Cumberland. The verdict, announced by Thomas E. Householder, Jr., jury foreman, was returned at 6:15 p.m.

—:—

MELLICONE was suspended from his post as manager at the store by the West Virginia Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission when the shortage was discovered June 1, 1966.

He was indicted on the charge of being responsible for a shortage of 289 bottles of whisky or the cash equivalent. The state, represented by Prosecuting Atty. Floyd Tarr, sought a judgment for the shortage of money that existed during the period Sept. 1, 1965, to June 1, 1966.

A major factor in the trial was testimony concerning lack of a system in the rotation of stock at the store and also that state auditing records could not be presented as evidence because they had been destroyed according to the policy of the ABC.

Atty. Edward A. Zagula, representing the defendant, contended the state failed to prove that Mellicone had taken the whisky.

Zagula said "the state had indicted a man for a crime which may not have been committed, and the ABCC is indeed in a slipshod fashion from top to bottom."

—:—

H. C. NICHOLAS, general supervisor of the ABCC, and Harry Atkins, of the state financing control office, testified that the auditing and inventory records which were subpoenaed by Zagula could not be presented as evidence.

They said the records were destroyed in conformity with the practice of the liquor agency.

Both men arrived from Charleston with the knowledge that the records also had been subpoenaed. Nicholas testified that Atkins had the records and when he could not produce them Judge James McClure instructed him to call Charleston. It was then learned the records were destroyed.

'SCHOLAR' CONTRIBUTION. John P. Strand, works manager at the Crucible Steel Co.'s Midland Works, left, presents the company's gift of $1,600 to Ralph A. Finley of East Liverpool, president of the Citizens Scholarship Foundation of the East Liverpool and Midland areas. Looking on is Joseph D. Coons of East Liverpool, treasure of the foundation. The drive will help provide scholarships to students of seven area school districts, based mostly on need. This is the second consecutive year Crucible has made a $1,600 contribution. Since the foundation started in 1963, the company has donated $6,700.

LBJ Visits Canada Fair; Sees Premier

MONTREAL (AP) — President Johnson came to the fair today.

After a quick visit to the Montreal world's fair, Expo 67 Johnson planned to discuss the Arab-Israeli crisis with Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson, then return to Washington.

It was a red letter day on the fair. Not only did it get a visit from the President on the fair's U.S. day but some time during the day the 7 millionth visitor was expected to pass through the turnstiles Expo 67 opened April 28.

Johnson's plane set down at Montreal's International Airport. The President's party had a chance to see some of the exhibits from 62 nations that are participating in Expo 67— part of Canada's celebration of the 100th year of confederation.

The U.S. exhibition has drawn criticism from some Americans, notably Gov. George Romney of Michigan, considered a Republican presidential candidate, who said it was "pretty on the outside but full of trivia on the inside."

Johnson planned to tour the fair for about an hour, then take off by helicopter for Harrington Lake, 20 miles north of Ottawa, for a luncheon conference with Pearson.

Johnson and the Canadian leader last met at Campobello Island, N.B., last Aug. 21 when they officiated at the opening of an international park at the old summer residence of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Johnson's only other visit to Canada as President was in late 1965 when he took part in a ceremony inaugurating the Columbia River power project on the British Columbia-Washington State border.

Pearson had a chilly meeting with the President in Maryland in May 1965 after proposing in a Philadelphia speech that the United States order a pause in its Vietnam bombing raids as a peace effort.

Mayor Continues Ambulance Data In Massillon Trip

Continuing an investigation of municipally - operated or supported ambulance services, Mayor George E. Willshaw went to Massillon today to confer with city officials.

The mayor obtained data on Berea's ambulance service in a trip Wednesday. He was accompanied by Auditor Lawrence J. Zollinger and Mrs. Elizabeth Oliver, the auditor's clerk, who met with Berea's Finance Director Curtis Chapman on ways of modernizing East Liverpool's payroll system.

Willshaw said he learned that Berea recently began an emergency ambulance service which is manned by the fire department. The city ambulance handles emergencies resulting from traffic crashes and fires, for instance, but funeral directors also maintain their traditional services in conveying persons to and from hospitals, he said.

The mayor started the investigation after East Liverpool funerals homes announced they will discontinue ambulance services in mid-July. When the data is assembled, it will be presented to Council.

Group Plans For Election

The nominating committee presented a slate of officers for the June 6 election during the meeting of Fr. Thome Council 5885, Knights of Columbus, Tuesday night at St. Ann's Church hall.

The committee consists of Paul Barbuto, Joe McKinnon and Charles Papendry.

Under the membership committee report, Frederick Luhrs, chairman, announced that an open membership meeting will be held June 13 at 7:30 p.m. at the hall. Fred Baldasare, a member of Cardinal Mercier Assembly, Fourth Degree K. of C., and a member of Wellsville Council 507, will discuss the origin and history of the movement.

James Potts, a faculty member at East Liverpool High School, will screen a movie on sports and also highlights of the ELHS undefeated football season in 1955.

Frank Arcuri, general program chairman, announced that the charter presentation will be made by James McPeak, district deputy, on June 18, when a communion breakfast will be served following the 10 a. m. Mass for charter members and their wives.

Fr. William Hohman discussed the crime rate and related it to the recent robbery at the church rectory. He commented that "it is a sad state of affairs today when the doors of the church have to be locked. Instead they should be open at all times for worshippers."

A fried chicken buffet lunch was served by William E. Gill, who also was program chairman. Luhrs screened a movie on "The Cost of Value of Modern Medical Care." Fr. Hohman closed with prayer.

Ferlaino and Arcuri, a delegate, will leave Friday for the K. of C. state convention this weekend at Cincinnati.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

What's Back Of Persistent Underweight?

Underweights are not keenly interested in food. When an undemanding appetite is coupled with excess activity or tension, it is difficult for underweights to eat enough to cover their energy needs, let alone add extra calories for curves.

Ida Jean Kain

Here are excerpts from letters from three thin girls: "A small daughter, a dog and an active husband keep me hopping. Plus running a home, I work in an office three days a week. The doctor gave me a vitamin, but I still can't gain 12 needed pounds. Breakfast is toast and coffee, lunch soup and a sandwich and dinner is a normal meal."

—:—

ANOTHER underweight writes: "I smoke a package of cigarettes a day. Could this be the cause of my failure to gain? I eat all the sweets I want, still don't gain. The doctor says I am in good health."

A 14-year-old writes: "All my clothes sag on me. . .nothing helps me to gain."

In healthy individuals, the common causes of underweight are lack of appetite, coupled with poor food habits and either over-activity or overly-tensed muscles. Chronic fatigue is frequently a cause of failure to gain needed weight.

The hard-pressed young mother is not eating enough. She should increase breakfast — a citrus fruit juice, a hot cereal with milk, and dried cooked apricots, dates, prunes or figs added. Plus toast and coffee. A good breakfast when the body is rested is an excellent time to boost the food intake.

At lunch, an added glass of milk would furnish nutrients and calories. At the end of the business day a 30 - minute rest period could work a miracle. Try this: Keep the baby-sitter 30 minutes longer while you lie down quietly and unwind. Non-work days, nap when the baby naps.

For the smoker: Do not smoke within one hour prior to any meal. By not smoking before eating, one thin girl was able to add a needed 20 pounds. Plan wholesome meals. The protective foods — meat, fish, poultry, vegetables, milk, eggs, fruits cereal and bread and butter — furnish the nutrients needed for proper assimilation. Empty calorie sweets cannot substitute for the foods which furnish nutrition essentials.

—:—

FOR THE teen-ager: You are in your fast-growing years and it takes a surprising amount of food to cover your requirements. Pay attention to all meals, starting with a good breakfast.

After school have a milk shake, no syrup added. Do not dull your appetite for meals with sweets between meals. Swim, work with weights or join a dance class to develop muscles and curves.

A balanced life with enough fresh air, rest, exercise and a routine that lessens tensions will result in a gradual gain to desirable weight — and relaxed, happy living.

Reds In Split

Pirates Rally, Defeat Astros

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Denny Lemaster's fast ball was booming during his warm-up, and it didn't stop once the game started.

Lou Brock singled in the third inning — off a slider — but that was the only hit St. Louis got off the Atlanta southpaw Wednesday night as the Braves beat the Cardinals 2-0.

"Tonight just as soon as I started warming up," Lemaster said, "my fast ball was going boom, boom, boom, right over the plate and I knew that I had it."

The Cardinals had had it, too.

While Lemaster was pitching the second one-hitter of his big league career and the eighth in the majors this season, Pittsburgh was beating Houston 7-4 and Los Angeles was trouncing the New York Mets 8-2 in other National League night games.

Cincinnati beat Chicago 4-3 and then lost to the Cubs by the same score in a day doubleheader. The San Francisco-Philadelphia night games was postponed because of cold weather.

"I was having a hard time getting my curve ball down and went mostly to my fast ball for the last three innings," said Lemaster, who in warming for his previous start May 19, which he won 3-2 over Pittsburgh, had expressed concern that he was losing his fast ball.

"That wasn't a cheap hit that Brock got," he said, "it was a clean single to center. That took the pressure off me. It came early in the game, and I didn't have to worry about a no-hitter."

Felipe Alou reduced the pressure further in the fifth inning by belting a two-run homer, one of only three Atlanta hits off Bob Gibson, to insure Lemaster's fourth victory in five decisions.

Lemaster walked four, struck out four and lowered his earned run average to 2.47. His other one-hitter was against Cincinnati in 1964.

Roberto Clementee's ninth homer gave the Pirates a 4-4 tie with Houston in the eighth, and Donn Clendenon's sacrifice fly in the same inning drove in the decisive run. The Pirates added two more in the ninth.

The Astros were leading 3-0 and rookie Don Wilson had a one-hitter after five when the Pirates broke lose for three in the sixth on Maury Wills' single and Willie Stargell's two-run homer.

Houston then went ahead again briefly on Joe Morgan's double, a fielder's choice and Bill Mazeroski's throwing error. It was the first run in 15 innings of relief pitching off veteran Roy Face this year. He worked three innings against the Astros and ran his record to 3-0.

Ron Hunt and Willie Davis were the big Los Angeles guns against the Mets. Hunt had three hits, driving in two runs with a double and another with a single. Davis doubled home one run and singled in a pair.

Claude Osteen went the distance for his sixth victory against three losses, allowing the Mets single runs in the first and fifth innings.

Tony Perez' two-run homer in the sixth inning powered the league-leading Reds to their first-game victory. Deron Johnson, playing the first time since May 6 because of an injury, tied the score at 2-2 with a bases-loaded double in the fourth.

In the nightcap, the Reds were leading 3-2 in the eighth when Ernie Banks singled home a run off relief ace Ted Abernathy.

The Cubs then won it in the ninth. Adolpho Phillips beat out a bunt, stole second and went to third on catcher John Edwards' throwing error. Don Kessinger then grounded to shortstop, and Phillips beat Le Cardenas' throw to the plate.

Cincinnati's Pete Rose singled twice in the first game and singled and homered in the second, extending his heating streak to 19 games. He drove in all three Red runs in the nightcap, two on the homer.

Downing 2-Hits Orioles; White Sox Roll

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Eddie Stanky grinned one of his impish grins and honed the needle he keeps handy for just such occasions.

His Chicago White Sox had crashed 21 hits including three home runs by Tom McCraw and walloped Minnesota 14-1 Wednesday. It was the kind of a game that makes managing a pleasure.

"I didn't like today's game," cracked Stanky. "The boys get more excitement out of the close ones."

If he wanted to see close games, Stanky should have been in Baltimore where Al Downing pitched New York to a 2-0 victory over the Orioles or at Detroit where Boston's Jim Lonborg flirted with trouble but escaped with a 1-0 victory over the Tigers. In the only other American League game played, Cleveland whipped Washington 9-1. Kansas City and California were idle.

★ ★ ★ Chicago Has 21 Hits To Rip Twins ★ ★ ★

Stanky couldn't contain his joy very long.

"Twenty-some hits," he said jubilantly. "This calls for a celebration. I've got to live it up."

McCraw, who had 22 home runs in his first four big league seasons, was just as happy.

"I've never had a game like this in pro ball before and I doubt if I'll ever have another," said the big first baseman, who drove in eight runs.

The three homers gave him six for the season and the big day could mean trouble for Stanky.

Analyzing McCraw before the season, Stanky pointed out that he had overcome one of his shortcomings.

"He used to get home run crazy occasionally. But he's licked the problem."

Oh yeah?

Home runs were the key for Downing and Lonborg too. Mickey Mantle's ninth of the season and 505th career shot provided both Yankee runs against the Orioles and Dalton Jones' solo homer was the Red Sox' only run against the Tigers.

Mantle connected in the third inning with Horace Clarke on base and that was enough for Downing, who lifted his record to 4-3 with his first complete game.

The smallish left-hander allowed just two hits and struck out 13. After Luis Aparicio opened the game with a single and Curt Blefary walked, Downing struck out Paul Blair and Frank Robinson and got Brooks Robinson on a fly ball.

The only other Orioles to reach base were Andy Etchebarren, who doubled with two out in the fifth but was out trying to stretch it into a triple, and Aparicio, who walked in the ninth.

Lonborg permitted the Tigers four hits and struck out 11, making Jones' second - inning homer stand up.

He pitched out of major trouble four times. The Tigers got the first two men on in the second but Lonborg struck out Bill Freehan and got Ray Oyler on a double play ball. He struck out Norm Cash leaving Al Kaline stranded on third base in the fourth.

In the seventh, Lonborg got Dick McAuliffe and Don Wert, ending a bases-loaded threat and in the eighth Kaline opened with a double but was left on base when Willie Horton bounced out and Jim Northrup and Cash fanned.

Leon Wagner tagged a two-run homer as Cleveland bunched nine hits for as many runs in the third and fourth innings against the Senators.

Luis Tiant scattered seven hits including a home run by Frank Howard for his second victory.

Midland Dog Sets Record

Champion Midland's Jan's Wendy Anne has broken records to be the first silky terrier in the United States to win Best in show at the Upper Potomac Valley Kennel Show held May 21, at Frostburg, Md.

The champion is shown with her owner Carmen Cananzi of Midland.

Wendy was shown under Judge Maxwell Riddle of Cleveland.

The silky was sired by Champion Koonoona Bo Bo. The dame was Lylak Jan. She was born May 15, 1965. She was bred, trained and shown by Cananzi, owner and operator of the Midland Silky Terrier Kennels located at 465 Ohio Ave.

Wendy has won at other shows, with five best of breeds, one group 4th place and one group 3rd place.

New Orleans Makes Bid

Miami Leading Candidate For Super Bowl Contest

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Football League, one team bigger with the addition of Cincinnati, and the National League appeared ready today to move their super world championship game from coast to coast.

Which coast it will move to — if it actually does move — is not certain. But the Atlantic Coast — Miami — seems to be the leading candidate to host the game that was initiated this past season on the West Coast — Los Angeles.

Another strong candidate is on the Gulf Coast — New Orleans.

Commissioner Pete Rozelle didn't indicate where the second Super Bowl might be held. He merely said Miami and New Orleans are in the running along with Los Angeles, Dallas and Houston.

"We've already researched all of the candidates, and it's in the hands of the joint committee," Rozelle said Wednesday.

Billy Sullivan, owner of the Boston Patriots and a member of the six-man AFL-NFL committee, said a site would be selected before today is over.

When the announcement comes, it will be the second major decision reached at the leagues' concurrent but separate meetings.

The AFL, with the NFL's approval, selected Cincinnati Wednesday as its 10th team for 1968.

That franchise very likely will be the last to be awarded at least until 1970 when the merger of the two leagues is fully implemented.

The feeling that the Super Bowl will be moved from Los Angeles has arisen because the game at the Coliseum attracted 63,036 to a stadium seating 93,000.

Sullivan said the crowd was smaller than expected partly because the site was announced at a late date but added:

"One of the things people saw afterward was that the great population center is in the East and not the West. If weather weren't a factor maybe the best choice would be Chicago because it's centrally located and the second choice may be New York.

"As Sonny Werblin says, somewhat ungrammatically, when you dig for clams, you digs where the clams is."

Sullivan wouldn't say where he thinks the football clams are, but Miami and its 70,000-seat Orange Bowl appears to be the leading candidate because it is an AFL city and Los Angeles is an NFL city.

Mixed Reactions Follow Proposed Rules Of Golf

NEW YORK (AP) — Mixed reactions followed proposals today for a worldwide uniform golf code that, among other things, would outlaw the croquet putting style and limit the number of times a ball may be cleaned on the green.

"It's ridiculous," said Jack Nicklaus, the reigning British Open champion, commenting on the ban on unorthodox putting methods. "Why don't they just let us put the ball down and play it?"

Many of the touring pros at the Oklahoma City open agreed.

"It's the last straw," said Bob Shave, Jr. whose croquet style of putting would be banned. "I'll probably have to quit the tour."

Chuck Rotar said he was blind in one eye and couldn't use the conventional style of putting.

Some of the touring pros also were expected to object to the rule which would permit the ball to be picked up and cleaned only once on the green—unless it is in another player's line.

The pros now can pick up and clean the ball on the green before each stroke.

Brigadier Brickman, secretary of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, Scotland, anchored defense of the action on bizarre putting styles and equipment.

"Croquet-style putting is becoming more prevelant," the R & A Executive said. "That is why we are trying to stop the use of them before they get a complete hold.

"It's not a fair stroke. It's more like a shove."

Bob Duden of Portland, Ore., popularized the croquet putting stroke, using a center shafted putter with a perpendicular shaft which he pushes between his legs like a croquet mallet.

Committees representing the U.S. Golf Association and the Royal & Ancient, governing bodies of the game, met at Kent, England, prior to the Walker Cup matches May 13-15 and recommended adoption of a code that would standardize rules on both sides of the Atlantic Ocean and throughout the world.

Bucs' Farmhand Impressive In Relief Pitching

By The Associated Press

Billy Short wasn't happy when the Pittsburgh Pirates sent him down the International League. But the way he's pitching the stay may be short.

The small left-hander made a most impressive relief appearance Wednesday night as the Columbus Jets finally subdued the Richmond Braves 5-4 in 14 innings.

In the only other scheduled action, Syracuse bombed Buffalo 7-1 and Toledo and Jacksonville split a doubleheader, the Mud Hens winning 4-3 then losing 3-2.

Short, who once pitched for Richmond, blanked the Braves over the last five innings with just one hit and struck out six.

Mike Derrick's two-out home run in the 14th won it for him. Jim Beauchamp hit his seventh homer in 15 games since joining the Braves from Atlanta.

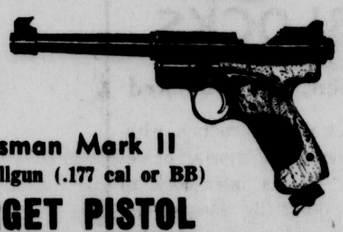

A passed ball and Jerry Stephenson's squeeze bunt gave Jacksonville two runs in the eighth inning for the Suns' victory in the second game at Toledo. Greg Goosen's three-run homer had given Jacksonville a 3-0 lead in the opener, but the Hens get one run back then won when Dave Campbell hit a three run homer.

Reds In Split

Pirates Rally, Defeat Astros

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Denny Lemaster's fast ball was booming during his warm-up, and it didn't stop once the game started.

Lou Brock singled in the third inning — off a slider — but that was the only hit St. Louis got off the Atlanta southpaw Wednesday night as the Braves beat the Cardinals 2-0.

"Tonight just as soon as I started warming up," Lemaster said, "my fast ball was going boom, boom, boom, right over the plate and I knew that I had it."

The Cardinals had had it, too.

While Lemaster was pitching the second one-hitter of his big league career and the eighth in the majors this season, Pittsburgh was beating Houston 7-4 and Los Angeles was trouncing the New York Mets 8-2 in other National League night games.

Cincinnati beat Chicago 4-3 and then lost to the Cubs by the same score in a day doubleheader. The San Francisco-Philadelphia night games was postponed because of cold weather.

"I was having a hard time getting my curve ball down and went mostly to my fast ball for the last three innings," said Lemaster, who in warming for his previous start May 19, which he won 3-2 over Pittsburgh, had expressed concern that he was losing his fast ball.

"That wasn't a cheap hit that Brock got," he said, "it was a clean single to center. That took the pressure off me. It came early in the game, and I didn't have to worry about a no-hitter."

Felipe Alou reduced the pressure further in the fifth inning by belting a two-run homer, one of only three Atlanta hits off Bob Gibson, to insure Lemaster's fourth victory in five decisions.

Lemaster walked four, struck out four and lowered his earned run average to 2.47. His other one-hitter was against Cincinnati in 1964.

Roberto Clementee's ninth homer gave the Pirates a 4-4 tie with Houston in the eighth, and Donn Clendenon's sacrifice fly in the same inning drove in the decisive run. The Pirates added two more in the ninth.

The Astros were leading 3-0 and rookie Don Wilson had a one-hitter after five when the Pirates broke lose for three in the sixth on Maury Wills' single and Willie Stargell's two-run homer.

Houston then went ahead again briefly on Joe Morgan's double, a fielder's choice and Bill Mazeroski's throwing error. It was the first run in 15 innings of relief pitching off veteran Roy Face this year. He worked three innings against the Astros and ran his record to 3-0.

Ron Hunt and Willie Davis were the big Los Angeles guns against the Mets. Hunt had three hits, driving in two runs with a double and another with a single. Davis doubled home one run and singled in a pair.

Claude Osteen went the distance for his sixth victory against three losses, allowing the Mets single runs in the first and fifth innings.

Tony Perez' two-run homer in the sixth inning powered the league-leading Reds to their first-game victory. Deron Johnson, playing the first time since May 6 because of an injury, tied the score at 2-2 with a bases-loaded double in the fourth.

In the nightcap, the Reds were leading 3-2 in the eighth when Ernie Banks singled home a run off relief ace Ted Abernathy.

The Cubs then won it in the ninth. Adolpho Phillips beat out a bunt, stole second and went to third on catcher John Edwards' throwing error. Don Kessinger then grounded to shortstop, and Phillips beat Le Cardenas' throw to the plate.

Cincinnati's Pete Rose singled twice in the first game and singled and homered in the second, extending his heating streak to 19 games. He drove in all three Red runs in the nightcap, two on the homer.

Golfers Feuding With PGA Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Golf's touring pros are feuding with the Professional Golfers Association again, and this time singer Frank Sinatra is the center of the controversy.

There's renewed locker room talk that the players are threatening to break away from the parent organization and run the $4-million tour on their own.

They've been making this threat, off and on, for several years but heretofore there's always been a reconciliation in time to ward off the drastic step.

A crisis developed last summer, reaching a head during the PGA championship in Akron, Ohio, in a squabble over television monies. The situation was temporarily resolved at the annual convention at Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., in December, and the pros stayed with the PGA.

The latest flare-up centers around whether the PGA should sponsor a $175,000 Frank Sinatra golf tournament at Palm Springs, Calif., two weeks prior to the Bob Hope Classic on the winter tour.

The players' Tournament Committee voted "yes." The PGA Executive Committee said "no."

The players blew their stacks. They held meetings at which they aired their gripes two weeks ago at New Orleans and got together again last week during the Colonial Invitation at Fort Worth, Tex.

The suggestion was made at these meetings, sources said, that the pros should form their own tour. No concrete action was taken.

Bob Creasey, executive director of the PGA with headquarters in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., acknowledged that PGA officials had held meetings with tournament players at which scheduling problems arose.

"We decided to hold these meetings in strictest confidence," Creasey said. "We don't have another scheduled meeting soon but I feel sure we will get together in the next two weeks and iron everything out."

Face Finally Scored Upon

HOUSTON — Elroy Face was finally scorede on after a dozen 1967 appearances, but the Pittsburgh Pirates came from behind Wednesday night to defeat the Houston Astros 7 - 4.

Face, who was touched for an unearned run in the seventh inning, picked up the victory, was finally scored on after a his third, when Roberto Clemente homered and Donn Clendenon hit a sacrifice fly to drive in two runs in the eighth.

The Pirates, who will entertain league-leading Cincinnati Friday night at Forbes Field, spotted Houston a 3-0 lead as the Astros shelled out Dennis Ribant.

But Willie Stargell's seventh homer with a man in the sixth finally tied it.

After Houston went ahead with its unearned marker in the seventh, Clemente bombed the centerfield seats — his eighth homer — leading off the eighth. Stargell and Bill Mazeroski singled and Clendenon hit a sacrifice fly to Jim Wynn in centerfield.

Pittsburgh picked up a pair of insurance runs in the ninth on doubles by Maury Wills and Mazeroski sandwiched around an infield single by Clemente, plus an error.

The victory gave Pittsburgh a 4-6 record for its trip to Cincinnati, Atlanta and Houston.

YOUR CAR

By Al Green

THE CAUSE OF 90% OF ALL AUTO wrecks is the driver, not any problem with the machine or other outside conditions. This finding from the Auto Club of Michigan. Tough to take the blame ourselves? Sure, but also easier to stay alive when we know we can prevent 90% of our own crashes just by being a safe driver!

ONE DETROIT AUTO MAKER IS studying a car design with the driver in the center. This helps frontal vision but cuts down side sight.

WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC IS MANUFACTURING an electric car. It was set to go on sale in June. A two passenger rig, it has a top speed of 25 mph and a range of 50 miles between chargings.

LOOKING FOR A CERTAIN USED CAR? Say a 1963 Pontiac, or a 1964 Bel Air, or a 1962 Plymouth? Chances are we have just the car you want, or we can find it for you quickly, here at M & A DODGE, 614 Broadway, East Liverpool. Visit our used car center and see!

TIRES WITH FIBERGLASS "BELT" construction are now in market testing. They combine a radial ply type "belt" under the tread with standard "ply" construction. The maker says it gives better stability and better road speeds along with smoother riding.

DRIVING YOUR CAR AFTER DRINKING alcoholic beverages is a serious legal and moral offense. Whether you are caught or not is a moot point.

Mauri Rose, Owner Gain Hall Of Fame

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Mauri Rose, three times winner of the Indianapolis 500-mile auto race, and Anton Hulman, Indianapolis Motor Speedway owner, were inducted into the Auto Racing Hall of Fame here Wednesday.

Rose, driving in relief of Floyd Davis, won the 1941 classic and piloted a front-drive Blue Crown to victories in 1947 and 1948.

Hulman, Terre Haute, Ind., business executive and sportsman, bought the Speedway in 1945, vastly expanded the facilities and increased the purse from pre-World War II totals under $100,000 to last year's record $691,000.

The 33 qualifiers for the 51st running of the 500 May 30 stayed off the Speedway oval Wednesday, tuning up their vehicles for Friday's final practice session.

Croquet Type Putting Is ?

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Sparked by the controversy over proposed rules eliminating the croquet style of putting and speeding play, the $66,000 Oklahoma City Open got under way today at Quail Creek Golf and Country Club.

Among the favorites were U.S. Open champ Billy Casper, Doug Sanders and Gary Player.

Still walking in a daze were Bob Shave Jr., Dean Refram and Chuck Rotar, all of whom used the croquet style. The negotiating committee of the U.S. Golf Association and the Royal and Ancient Golf Club at St. Andrew's agreed on the croquet putting ban Wednesday.

Shave, whose croquet putter is named The Last Straw, said he might have to leave the tour if the rule goes into effect in January. He said he went to the croquet style because of a nervous reaction which caused him to "jump" at the ball in a conventional stance.

This tournament is dedicated to the late Tony Lema, who won here last year in what turned out to be his last tournament victory before his death in a plane crash last summer.

Golfers Feuding With PGA Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Golf's touring pros are feuding with the Professional Golfers Association again, and this time singer Frank Sinatra is the center of the controversy.

There's renewed locker room talk that the players are threatening to break away from the parent organization and run the $4-million tour on their own.

They've been making this threat, off and on, for several years but heretofore there's always been a reconciliation in time to ward off the drastic step.

A crisis developed last summer, reaching a head during the PGA championship in Akron, Ohio, in a squabble over television monies. The situation was temporarily resolved at the annual convention at Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., in December, and the pros stayed with the PGA.

The latest flare-up centers around whether the PGA should sponsor a $175,000 Frank Sinatra golf tournament at Palm Springs, Calif., two weeks prior to the Bob Hope Classic on the winter tour.

The players' Tournament Committee voted "yes." The PGA Executive Committee said "no."

The players blew their stacks. They held meetings at which they aired their gripes two weeks ago at New Orleans and got together again last week during the Colonial Invitation at Fort Worth, Tex.

The suggestion was made at these meetings, sources said, that the pros should form their own tour. No concrete action was taken.

Bob Creasey, executive director of the PGA with headquarters in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., acknowledged that PGA officials had held meetings with tournament players at which scheduling problems arose.

"We decided to hold these meetings in strictest confidence," Creasey said. "We don't have another scheduled meeting soon but I feel sure we will get together in the next two weeks and iron everything out."

Face Finally Scored Upon

HOUSTON — Elroy Face was finally scorede on after a dozen 1967 appearances, but the Pittsburgh Pirates came from behind Wednesday night to defeat the Houston Astros 7 - 4.

Face, who was touched for an unearned run in the seventh inning, picked up the victory, was finally scored on after a his third, when Roberto Clemente homered and Donn Clendenon hit a sacrifice fly to drive in two runs in the eighth.

The Pirates, who will entertain league-leading Cincinnati Friday night at Forbes Field, spotted Houston a 3-0 lead as the Astros shelled out Dennis Ribant.

But Willie Stargell's seventh homer with a man in the sixth finally tied it.

After Houston went ahead with its unearned marker in the seventh, Clemente bombed the centerfield seats — his eighth homer — leading off the eighth. Stargell and Bill Mazeroski singled and Clendenon hit a sacrifice fly to Jim Wynn in centerfield.

Pittsburgh picked up a pair of insurance runs in the ninth on doubles by Maury Wills and Mazeroski sandwiched around an infield single by Clemente, plus an error.

The victory gave Pittsburgh a 4-6 record for its trip to Cincinnati, Atlanta and Houston.

Now Manages Tulsa Club

Mrs. Spahn Was Husband's No. 1 Fan During Career

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Her wedding plans got all mixed up and as a bride she had to learn how to keep a boxscore almost before she could set up housekeeping.

But Lorene Spahn, who says she has lived "a million thrills and quite a few heartbreaks," is now an avid — and expert — fan of baseball in general and of the career of her husband, Warren Spahn, in particular.

Lorene Southard was a year out of high school at Okmulgee, Okla., and working in Tulsa when she met Spahn, then serving in World War II and in Tulsa on leave. She was a stranger to baseball.

Lorene and Warren became engaged while he was in Europe and by April 1946, when he was discharged, she was making plans for a church wedding. But Billy Southworth, who was the new manager of the Boston Braves, intervened.

When he took over the Boston club, Southworth had asked, "Where's that skinny southpaw you had in spring training a couple of years ago?" Informed that he was about to be discharged, Southworth sent out the word for Spahn to report. The wedding plans had to be delayed.

Lorene decided, first, to delay the wedding until the end of the season, but Spahn kept calling, asking her to come to Boston and be married. On Aug. 10 she did, becoming Mrs. Warren Spahn in a simple, private ceremony.

He told her that baseball was going to be their life and maybe she could develop an interest by learning to keep score. Boston sports writers helped her in scoring the game by daily lessons in the press box.

Spahn's career as one of the great left-handed pitchers in baseball is over and he is in his first season as manager of the Tulsa Oilers of the Pacific Coast League.

Nightly, when the Oilers play at home, Mrs. Spahn is in her box seat behind home plate, score card in hand.

"I lived a million thrills and quite a few heartbreaks," she recalls. "When Warren was pitching I might as well have been out on the mound with him. I knew his repertoire of pitches and was always trying to figure out what he would throw next.

"We used to go over the opposing hitters together before each game. Now we go over line-ups."

The Spahns have a ranch near Hartshorne, south of Tulsa.

Their only child, Greg, apparently is ready to carry on where his father let off. Greg, born the day before Spahn and the Braves played in the 1948 World Series, is a third baseman and outfielder on the University of Oklahoma freshman baseball team.

Young Spahn is leading the team with a .348 average.

Program Set At Canfield On Tuesday

Canfield Speedway once again will have a racing feature on the night of Memorial Day.

Restricted to late models, the speedway will offer seven events. Two 50-lap features will head the gigantic evening holiday action.

The opening event on May 30 will get under way at 8 p. m. Time trials start at 6:30 p. m. and gates to the speedway open at 6.

This will mark the 18th year that Canfield has presented Memorial Day racing and the holiday attractions of the past have given Canfield Speedway nation-wide recognition.

Victors in the last year holiday events have been Bob James of Montrose, Ohio, Bill Forney of Boardman and George Hegedus of Cortland.

In the first 50 lapper cars will start straight - up according to their qualifying times. In the second it will be a reverse start according to how they finished in the first long duel.

This big special card is expected to attract the top late model stars from the district and they will have many 1965 and 1964 model cars in action.

In addition to Forney and Hegedus, bolstering the field will be such outstanding drivers as last week's winner, Bob Burris of Niles; Jim Bickerstaff of Mineral Ridge. Tom Wimer of Girard, Junior Postlewait of Mineral Ridge, Chuck Dorsey of Warren, Tommy Jarrett of Austintown, Bob Blaney of Hartford, Mike Borawiec of Warren and others.

Next Saturday night Canfield will stage its regular 11-race program. An extra three heat events were added for the stock division last week and they will be in force again. The stock will be featured in a 20-lap duel and the late models 30 laps.

Time trials are at 6:30 p.m. and first event at 8.

Phils Call Loughlin, Short On Injury List

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies announced Wednesday night they have called up pitcher Larry Loughlin from the San Diego club in the Pacific Coast League to replace left-hander Chris Short, who has been placed on the 21-day disabled list.

The Phillies said Loughlin, also a left-hander, was expected to arrive in time for their game against St. Louis Friday night here.

Short, who won 20 games last year for the Phils, suffered a torn ligament in his left knee Tuesday when he collided with teammate Doug Clemens in a warmup before the Phillies game with the San Francisco Giants.

Mrs. Spahn Was Husband's No. 1 Fan During Career

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Her wedding plans got all mixed up and as a bride she had to learn how to keep a boxscore almost before she could set up housekeeping.

But Lorene Spahn, who says she has lived "a million thrills and quite a few heartbreaks," is now an avid — and expert — fan of baseball in general and of the career of her husband, Warren Spahn, in particular.

Lorene Southard was a year out of high school at Okmulgee, Okla., and working in Tulsa when she met Spahn, then serving in World War II and in Tulsa on leave. She was a stranger to baseball.

Lorene and Warren became engaged while he was in Europe and by April 1946, when he was discharged, she was making plans for a church wedding. But Billy Southworth, who was the new manager of the Boston Braves, intervened.

When he took over the Boston club, Southworth had asked, "Where's that skinny southpaw you had in spring training a couple of years ago?" Informed that he was about to be discharged, Southworth sent out the word for Spahn to report. The wedding plans had to be delayed.

Lorene decided, first, to delay the wedding until the end of the season, but Spahn kept calling, asking her to come to Boston and be married. On Aug. 10 she did, becoming Mrs. Warren Spahn in a simple, private ceremony.

He told her that baseball was going to be their life and maybe she could develop an interest by learning to keep score. Boston sports writers helped her in scoring the game by daily lessons in the press box.

Spahn's career as one of the great left-handed pitchers in baseball is over and he is in his first season as manager of the Tulsa Oilers of the Pacific Coast League.

Nightly, when the Oilers play at home, Mrs. Spahn is in her box seat behind home plate, score card in hand.

"I lived a million thrills and quite a few heartbreaks," she recalls. "When Warren was pitching I might as well have been out on the mound with him. I knew his repertoire of pitches and was always trying to figure out what he would throw next.

"We used to go over the opposing hitters together before each game. Now we go over line-ups."

The Spahns have a ranch near Hartshorne, south of Tulsa.

Their only child, Greg, apparently is ready to carry on where his father let off. Greg, born the day before Spahn and the Braves played in the 1948 World Series, is a third baseman and outfielder on the University of Oklahoma freshman baseball team.

Young Spahn is leading the team with a .348 average.

Program Set At Canfield On Tuesday

Canfield Speedway once again will have a racing feature on the night of Memorial Day.

Restricted to late models, the speedway will offer seven events. Two 50-lap features will head the gigantic evening holiday action.

The opening event on May 30 will get under way at 8 p. m. Time trials start at 6:30 p. m. and gates to the speedway open at 6.

This will mark the 18th year that Canfield has presented Memorial Day racing and the holiday attractions of the past have given Canfield Speedway nation-wide recognition.

Victors in the last year holiday events have been Bob James of Montrose, Ohio, Bill Forney of Boardman and George Hegedus of Cortland.

In the first 50 lapper cars will start straight - up according to their qualifying times. In the second it will be a reverse start according to how they finished in the first long duel.

This big special card is expected to attract the top late model stars from the district and they will have many 1965 and 1964 model cars in action.

In addition to Forney and Hegedus, bolstering the field will be such outstanding drivers as last week's winner, Bob Burris of Niles; Jim Bickerstaff of Mineral Ridge. Tom Wimer of Girard, Junior Postlewait of Mineral Ridge, Chuck Dorsey of Warren, Tommy Jarrett of Austintown, Bob Blaney of Hartford, Mike Borawiec of Warren and others.

Next Saturday night Canfield will stage its regular 11-race program. An extra three heat events were added for the stock division last week and they will be in force again. The stock will be featured in a 20-lap duel and the late models 30 laps.

Time trials are at 6:30 p.m. and first event at 8.

Phils Call Loughlin, Short On Injury List

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies announced Wednesday night they have called up pitcher Larry Loughlin from the San Diego club in the Pacific Coast League to replace left-hander Chris Short, who has been placed on the 21-day disabled list.

The Phillies said Loughlin, also a left-hander, was expected to arrive in time for their game against St. Louis Friday night here.

Short, who won 20 games last year for the Phils, suffered a torn ligament in his left knee Tuesday when he collided with teammate Doug Clemens in a warmup before the Phillies game with the San Francisco Giants.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I don't sleep in my wife's nightgowns, nor do I wear her girdle, but if I did I can't see that it would be any of your business — or anyone else's, for that matter. Recently I had an experience along these lines and it burned me up.

I have been having trouble with my ankles lately, a general weakness of the muscles. My podiatrist suggested that I walk around the house in my wife's high heels for an hour or two during the evening.

The other night the kid who delivers papers came to collect. I answered the door in my wife's high heels. The boy almost died laughing, and now it's all over the neighborhood.

Why are people so eager to put 2 and 2 together and get 6? I hope you'll print my letter and open a few eyes. — NORMAL NORMAN.

-:-

Dear Norman: Apparently the eyes are already open. It's the mouths you are having trouble with.

In all fairness, you can hardly blame the kid. One does not expect to see the man of the house klomping around in his wife's shoes. You asked for it.

Young Freeloader

Dear Ann: What do you think of parents of a working son or daughter who demand a share of that person's salary even though they don't need it?

I'm 19, have a good job and want to save some money so I can be married. But how can I save anything when these vultures demand one-fourth of my pay check every week?

I've been working for seven months but I never had to pay any board or room. Suddenly my folks decided I should contribute to the house. They told me I have no choice — either contribute or leave.

Can they evict me? What are my legal rights? — SON OF MONEY GRABBERS.

Dear Son: Legal rights vary according to the state, but in my opinion this is not a matter of law, it's a matter of personal integrity.

A boy 19, who is earning money and living at home, should pay something for room and board (and laundry, I'll bet, plus telephone and maid service . . . etc.) whether his folks need it or not. He should pay because he does not want to be a parasite. Your attitude leaves a lot to be desired, fella.

Share The Loot

Dear Ann: Please settle an argument: My fiancee and I plan to be married soon. Her family is from another country. None of them will be able to attend the wedding. My parents are giving us the wedding reception as a gift.

The problem is that my parents want us to set all the gifts aside and open them in their presence — just the four of us.

My fiancee and I feel that these are our gifts and we should not be asked to share the opening with anyone, what do you say? — FEELINGS AT STAKE.

—:—

Dear Feelings: Why be so selfish? Pass the joy around. If they want to be present, let them. It costs you nothing.

Confidentially

To Worried and Nervous: The answer is NO. It is not possible. A 16-year-old girl who would have to ask this question is in desperate need of information.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Home Lovers: Many of us have a kitchen window, a bathroom window, etc., that doesn't have a good view.

For instance kitchen windows sometimes look out on trash cans or alleys. Or perhaps you have other windows that you like to have light come through but don't want people seeing in.

Why not frost them?

This will only cost you a few cents per window. Futhermore, it even saves washing those windows each month because the rain marks and the dust on the outside don't show!

Buy some Epsom salts. Get the smallest jar you possibly can because it's going a long way when we dab our windows with it. This should cost you about 25 cents.

Pour about two heaping tablespoons in a saucer and add one tablespoon of beer to it. This will foam.

Let it set for at least 30 minutes. The salt crystals will partially dissolve.

You will end up with a liquid that looks like absolutely nothing but it will make you an artist. And what an artist you're going to be!

Dip a piece of facial tissue into this liquid and wipe each window pane as if you were washing it.

Then while it is still thoroughly wet, go back and dab, dob and pat the pane with the wet tissue. It's going to look real messy.

To get an artistic pattern, this is exactly what you want. The most beautiful crystals will form on your window when it dries.

Light still comes through from God's sunshine, but you can't see in from the outside, and yet you can see OUT. Even the sun glare is reduced.

The one thing I must caution you about is:

Your window panes must be clean. I recommend washing them with some ammonia water to remove all the carbon, then wiping dry with facial tissues. Don't use a bath towel, a dish rag or a sponge because these contain a minute amount of grease or body oil.

When you want to remove the crystals, all you have to do is wash the window. Just plain water removes it.

-:-

DEAR HELOISE: Often I run out of drawing paper for my children.

So I bought an inexpensive roll of brown wrapping paper, covered our picnic table with it and thumb tacked it down.

Now the children draw and color on this paper and love the idea.

When one side is used, I just turn it over.

READER.

DEAR HELOISE: Please help!

We had a problem of rust in our water and in doing the laundry all my clothes were stained yellow.

I used a bleach to whiten but all too late. Discovered that I had set the stains.

Is there anything I can do to remove the stain from my clothes?

Can anyone help Emily solve her problem? If so, please write us in care of this paper. We'd love to hear from you.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I discovered a marvelous substitute for cake coloring . . . flavored gelatin! I dissolved two teaspoons of strawberry gelatin in a bit of hot water one day when I ran out of cake coloring.

Lo and behold, it not only made an excellent pink-colored icing but a fine - flavored one as well.

C. VON MALUSKI.

LETTER OF THOUGHT

DEAR HELOISE: When someone's faults irritate me and I complain, my husband often gently reminds me that most of these same faults are also mine.

20 YEARS MARRIED.

DEAR HELOISE: There have been many other suggestions for old placemats with foam-covered bottoms. I cut my mats in circles and use on my window sills under all my flower pots.

They sure save my window sill paint.

MRS. F. L.

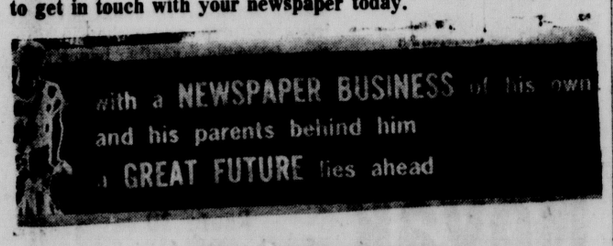

The young man who knows

THE FACTS OF LIFE

A recent survey shows that only one boy in 20 is exposed to the economic facts of life during his high school career. How, then, can a youngster learn the priceless principles of free enterprise — the economic system which has made our nation great? One of the few remaining opportunities in our society is to become a newspaperboy.

As a newspaperboy, with his own business responsibilities, he develops self-confidence and learns how to launch out on his own initiative. Also, he learns how to manage time and money. And he discovers that hard work is the real basis for lasting personal satisfaction, character development, and financial gain.

If your son is now a newspaperboy, encourage him to take the fullest advantage of the opportunity to learn the economic facts of life, first hand. If he is not a newspaperboy, urge him to get in touch with your newspaper today.

Burgettstown's Teachers Back; Win Pay Boost

BURGETTSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Striking school teachers return to classes today in the Burgettstown Area School District after reportedly winning a pay hike.

About 95 per cent of the district's 136 teachers, who have been pressuring for higher pay, declared a "professional holiday" Wednesday and took the day off.

Wednesday night, teacher representatives met with the school board and it was announced a settlement was achieved.

The board made no official announcement of pay increases, but one board member said unofficially top-salaried teachers were granted a $300 annual boost and smaller increases were granted other teachers.

Teachers said they had been negotiating for higher pay for 4½ months without success. An earlier proposal by the board was rejected Monday.

Crash At Corner Damages 2 Cars

Two cars were damaged in a collision Wednesday at the junction of McKinnon and St. Clair Aves., police reported.

The crash damaged the left front fender and bumper of the Eardley car and the left rear door of the Fife auto.

Each driver was making a turn at the time of the crash. The Eardley auto was moving off McKinnon onto St. Clair and the Fife vehicle was turning off St. Clair onto McKinnon. Patrolman K. J. Montgomery investigated.

LEGAL NOTICE

John C. Bosworth and Eva M. Bosworth, who reside at 13344 Pauhaska Road, Apple Valley, California, will take notice that on the 28th day of April, 1967, the plaintiff, First Federal Savings and Loan Association, 1032 Pennsylvania Avenue, East Liverpool, Ohio, filed its petition against them in the Court of Common Pleas of Columbiana County, Ohio, the same being Cause No. 52014 in said Court for money in the sum of $7,918.62 with interest at 7½% per annum from May 1, 1967, for foreclosure of its mortgage from them on the following described real estate in said petition described, to-wit:

"It is mutually understood and agreed by the grantors and grantees herein, that the above recited courses and distances are subject to such minor corrections and alterations as will be determined by a future field survey of the above described tract, and that said tract shall be designated as Lot Number Three (3), AIR BEACON ESTATES, when the survey of said development is completed and recorded."

It is mutually understood and agreed by the grantors and grantees herein, that the premises hereby conveyed shall be subject to all the reservations and restrictions, conditions and covenants, which will be adopted and recorded upon dedication of the recorded plat of AIR BEACON ESTATES as aforesaid, and that said restrictions shall be valid and binding upon the grantees herein, their heirs and assigns, when so adopted and recorded.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I don't sleep in my wife's nightgowns, nor do I wear her girdle, but if I did I can't see that it would be any of your business — or anyone else's, for that matter. Recently I had an experience along these lines and it burned me up.

I have been having trouble with my ankles lately, a general weakness of the muscles. My podiatrist suggested that I walk around the house in my wife's high heels for an hour or two during the evening.

The other night the kid who delivers papers came to collect. I answered the door in my wife's high heels. The boy almost died laughing, and now it's all over the neighborhood.

Why are people so eager to put 2 and 2 together and get 6? I hope you'll print my letter and open a few eyes. — NORMAL NORMAN.

-:-

Dear Norman: Apparently the eyes are already open. It's the mouths you are having trouble with.

In all fairness, you can hardly blame the kid. One does not expect to see the man of the house klomping around in his wife's shoes. You asked for it.

Young Freeloader

Dear Ann: What do you think of parents of a working son or daughter who demand a share of that person's salary even though they don't need it?

I'm 19, have a good job and want to save some money so I can be married. But how can I save anything when these vultures demand one-fourth of my pay check every week?

I've been working for seven months but I never had to pay any board or room. Suddenly my folks decided I should contribute to the house. They told me I have no choice — either contribute or leave.

Can they evict me? What are my legal rights? — SON OF MONEY GRABBERS.

Dear Son: Legal rights vary according to the state, but in my opinion this is not a matter of law, it's a matter of personal integrity.

A boy 19, who is earning money and living at home, should pay something for room and board (and laundry, I'll bet, plus telephone and maid service . . . etc.) whether his folks need it or not. He should pay because he does not want to be a parasite. Your attitude leaves a lot to be desired, fella.

Share The Loot

Dear Ann: Please settle an argument: My fiancee and I plan to be married soon. Her family is from another country. None of them will be able to attend the wedding. My parents are giving us the wedding reception as a gift.

The problem is that my parents want us to set all the gifts aside and open them in their presence — just the four of us.

My fiancee and I feel that these are our gifts and we should not be asked to share the opening with anyone, what do you say? — FEELINGS AT STAKE.

—:—

Dear Feelings: Why be so selfish? Pass the joy around. If they want to be present, let them. It costs you nothing.

Confidentially

To Worried and Nervous: The answer is NO. It is not possible. A 16-year-old girl who would have to ask this question is in desperate need of information.

Burgettstown's Teachers Back; Win Pay Boost

BURGETTSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Striking school teachers return to classes today in the Burgettstown Area School District after reportedly winning a pay hike.

About 95 per cent of the district's 136 teachers, who have been pressuring for higher pay, declared a "professional holiday" Wednesday and took the day off.

Wednesday night, teacher representatives met with the school board and it was announced a settlement was achieved.

The board made no official announcement of pay increases, but one board member said unofficially top-salaried teachers were granted a $300 annual boost and smaller increases were granted other teachers.

Teachers said they had been negotiating for higher pay for 4½ months without success. An earlier proposal by the board was rejected Monday.

Crash At Corner Damages 2 Cars

Two cars were damaged in a collision Wednesday at the junction of McKinnon and St. Clair Aves., police reported.

The mishap involved a 1965 two - door sedan driven by Louise M. Eardley of 1203 Fairmont St. and a 1964 four - door sedan operated by Helen R. Fife of 1621 St. Clair Ave.

The crash damaged the left front fender and bumper of the Eardley car and the left rear door of the Fife auto.

Each driver was making a turn at the time of the crash. The Eardley auto was moving off McKinnon onto St. Clair and the Fife vehicle was turning off St. Clair onto McKinnon. Patrolman K. J. Montgomery investigated.

Kansas Man Indicted In '64 Beating Death

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The Summit County grand jury has indicted Harvey M. Armstrong of Hutchinson, Kan., for second-degree murder in the 1964 beating death of his 5-year-old stepdaughter, Marjorie. Armstrong, indicted Wednesday, will be arraigned Friday.

The girl's body was found May 13 in a shallow grave under a suburban Akron industrial parking lot. Marjorie was the daughter of Velma D. Rhea, 27, Armstrong's common-law wife.

Figures Are Reported For Ohio Lake Ports

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's lake ports handled more than $576 million in international trade goods during 1966, the Develeopment Department reports.

Figures show that the ports of Cleveland, Toledo, Ashtabula, Conneaut, Fairport, Sandusky, Lorain and Huron handled $305,348,700 in exports last year while imports totaled $271,146,600.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruso —

Dear Home Lovers: Many of us have a kitchen window, a bathroom window, etc., that doesn't have a good view.

For instance kitchen windows sometimes look out on trash cans or alleys. Or perhaps you have other windows that you like to have light come through but don't want people seeing in.

Why not frost them?

This will only cost you a few cents per window. Furthermore, it even saves washing those windows each month because the rain marks and the dust on the outside don't show!

Buy some Epsom salts. Get the smallest jar you possibly can because it's going a long way when we dab our windows with it. This should cost you about 25 cents.

Pour about two heaping tablespoons in a saucer and add one tablespoon of beer to it. This will foam.

Let it set for at least 30 minutes. The salt crystals will partially dissolve.

You will end up with a liquid that looks like absolutely nothing but it will make you an artist. And what an artist you're going to be!

Dip a piece of facial tissue into this liquid and wipe each window pane as if you were washing it.

Then while it is still thoroughly wet, go back and dab, dob and pat the pane with the wet tissue. It's going to look real messy.

To get an artistic pattern, this is exactly what you want. The most beautiful crystals will form on your window when it dries.

Light still comes through from God's sunshine, but you can't see in from the outside, and yet you can see OUT. Even the sun glare is reduced.

The one thing I must caution you about is:

Your window panes must be clean. I recommend washing them with some ammonia water to remove all the carbon, then wiping dry with facial tissues. Don't use a bath towel, a dish rag or a sponge because these contain a minute amount of grease or body oil.

When you want to remove the crystals, all you have to do is wash the window. Just plain water removes it.

-:-

DEAR HELOISE: Often I run out of drawing paper for my children.

So I bought an inexpensive roll of brown wrapping paper, covered our picnic table with it and thumb tacked it down.

Now the children draw and color on this paper and love the idea.

When one side is used, I just turn it over.

READER.

DEAR HELOISE: Please help!

We had a problem of rust in our water and in doing the laundry all my clothes were stained yellow.

I used a bleach to whiten but all too late. Discovered that I had set the stains.

Is there anything I can do to remove the stain from my clothes?

Can anyone help Emily solve her problem? If so, please write us in care of this paper. We'd love to hear from you.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I discovered a marvelous substitute for cake coloring . . . flavored gelatin! I dissolved two teaspoons of strawberry gelatin in a bit of hot water one day when I ran out of cake coloring.

Lo and behold, it not only made an excellent pink-colored icing but a fine - flavored one as well.

C. VON MALUSKI.

LETTER OF THOUGHT

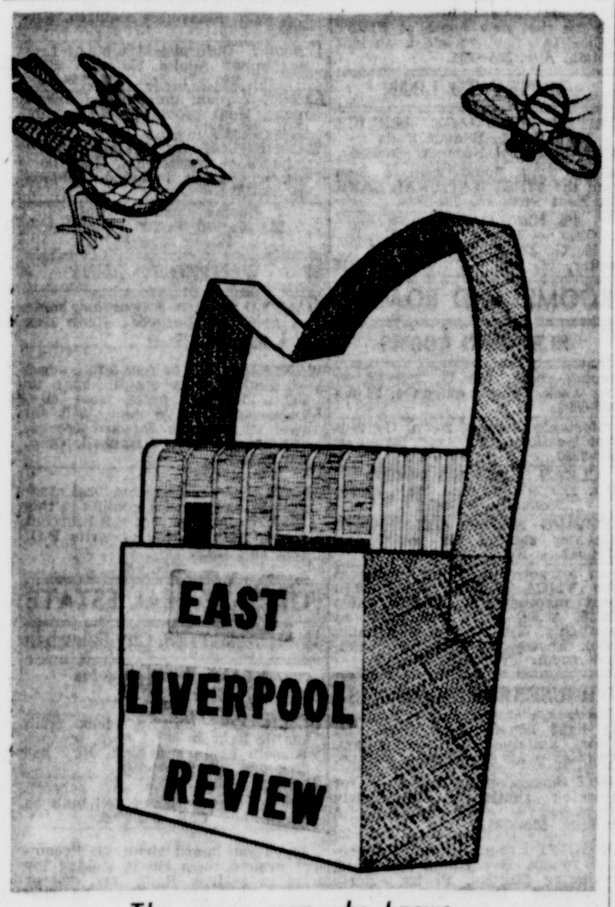

DEAR HELOISE: When someone's faults irritate me and I complain, my husband often gently reminds me that most of these same faults are also mine.

20 YEARS MARRIED.

DEAR HELOISE: There have been many other suggestions for old placemats with foam-covered bottoms. I cut my mats in circles and use on my window sills under all my flower pots.

They sure save my window sill paint.

THE FACTS OF LIFE

A recent survey shows that only one boy in 20 is exposed to the economic facts of life during his high school career. How, then, can a youngster learn the priceless principles of free enterprise — the economic system which has made our nation great? One of the few remaining opportunities in our society is to become a newspaperboy.

As a newspaperboy, with his own business responsibilities, he develops self-confidence and learns how to launch out on his own initiative. Also, he learns how to manage time and money. And he discovers that hard work is the real basis for lasting personal satisfaction, character development, and financial gain.

If your son is now a newspaperboy, encourage him to take the fullest advantage of the opportunity to learn the economic facts of life, first hand. If he is not a newspaperboy, urge him to get in touch with your newspaper today.

with a NEWSPAPER BUSINESS of his own and his parents behind him

NEW FROM HONDA
CL-90 SCRAMBLER

The Scramble 90 is a rugged performer on country trails or on city streets. Like its bigger cousins, the CL-160 and the CL-77, it boasts Honda's traditional squared off Scramble tank and upswept tailpipe. Also like the other Scramblers in the Honda line, the CL-90's exclusive muffler is quiet enough for city riding anywhere.

Junior Editors Quiz on BUTTERFLY FISH

QUESTION: Why do butterfly fish have that name and where are they found?

ANSWER: Butterflies have wide, flat wings which in most cases are marked by bold patterns and colors of many varieties. Several kinds of fish are called butterfly fish because they have winglike fins or their bright markings suggest butterflies—sometimes for both reasons. The large fish we show (A) is the common butterfly fish, found swimming around coral reefs, such as those off the southern tip of Florida. Their resemblance to butterflies is heightened because they are so flat when seen from front (shown at right). The bold splotches of light and dark tend to confuse underwater predators who would like butterfly fish for dinner. The fish's true outline is difficult to see, since the false eye spot makes him seem to be going in a different direction. The ocellated Blenny (B) is another fish with such large fins as to be often called a butterfly fish. Still another butterfly-like fish is the flying gurnard, with enormous pectoral fins (C). It can sail in the air for short distances and is found in the southern Atlantic.
